FROM CANON TO LEGENDS...THE END OF AN ERA

I will always remember April 25, 2014... On that fateful day, Lucasfilm Ltd. announced that the carefully orchestrated narrative known as the Expanded Universe would be re-branded Legends. This was to ensure that future Star Wars projects, created under the Disney umbrella, would not be hampered by the thousands of in-universe years of creative storytelling which essentially began way back in 1978 with Alan Dean Foster's novel SPLINTER OF THE MIND'S EYE and continued on to 2014's Dark Horse comic miniseries DARTH MAUL: SON OF DATHOMIR (which, strangely enough, was both part of Legends as well as the newly-established canon under Disney).

How did I feel about this, owning every single piece of storytelling book and comic up until that point? After careful consideration which took months, mind you, I came to the conclusion that, unlike many of my friends, I would support this decision as the powers-in-charge promised us an even more-carefully orchestrated canon of all upcoming movies, books, comics, videogames, and whatnot... That sounded like a good initiative to me, even though it meant having to part with my idea of established canon up until then... But, as often happens, promises are apparently hard to keep, and within a few years, mistakes in the storyline continuum started to take place and as years passed, these became more frequent. I can now say that the Legends timeline, which lasted for more than 30 years, is a more structured whole than the 10 years of new-canon we now have.... That's when it all started to fall apart for me.... Where were the ‘gods’ like Pablo Hidalgo, Leland Chee, Dan Wallace, Jason Fry and several others who retconned and tried to maintain a cohesive whole of a structured timeline when they were so sorely needed?

Anyway, back to the beginning... My first brush with the Expanded Universe came around 1985, when my big brother took me to a magical place called a comic bookstore in Amsterdam where they sold books and comics, and among those I discovered Marvel’s Star Wars (# 63 to be precise, in which Darth Vader exclaims “Luke Skywalker, I have come for you!”). This was in pre-Internet days, so I, being from the Netherlands, never heard of these continuations of my favorite movies! I devoured that first issue and with it came the need to passionately start hunting down previous issues! Never will I forget the feeling I had when I discovered # 7’s “New Planets, New Perils” which for me was the first ever sequel to Star Wars I’d read!!!

Jumping to the late 90s, I remember going ‘online’ for the first time, and a larger universe opened up for me (remember that in the Netherlands, I literally felt as Luke as if there was a bright center to the Star Wars universe, I was in a country that was farthest from). It was easier to get the books and comics I wanted, and I discovered some great timeline-efforts made by people who cared! During that time, I started to make a bunch of new friends (fellow-timeline enthusiasts Nathan Butler, Robert Mullin, Joe Bongiorno, Jim Lehane to name a few), and a whole new world opened up for me in which we discussed the placement of numerous events happening in the Star Wars galaxy! And when Dark Horse’s Randy Stradley took over as editor of the Star Wars comics, the best of times began! Their message boards were a fantastic place to hang out, talk new comics, engage with writers, artists, and fellow fans. It was during this time that I first ‘met’ Trevor, whom I now consider as one of my true friends (albeit we have never met in real life)!

In the early 2000s, I started thinking about creating a timeline of events (my angle was to create a day-by-day timeline, dated according to the in-universe Great ReSynchronization which happened 35 years before the Battle of Yavin (BBY). And although I started anew numerous times, the project never really got off the ground... and then... I was sidetracked by my passion to talk about new Star Wars books and comics. And in trying to give fans the ultimate overview of upcoming new publications, I started to make listings on my newly-acquired website and am still doing that to this day (which basically takes all available free time I have). So when I realized my timeline would never happen, I was very happy that several other people kept doing that for me to enjoy!

And now, we'll have this fantastic volume carefully put together by Trevor!!! I've read through it several times already and still remain amazed by the countless details and inclusion of obscure material inside this, for me, ultimate timeline! And even though I no longer collect physical Star Wars books and comics (that's a whole other story, but basically I have gone digital), I know I will proudly display this volume among the few Star Wars books I still own! Thanks Trevor for creating something I only ever dreamed of!

Now, for all of you who have wasted enough time to read my poor attempt of a foreword, I only have this to say: Move along, move along, and dive into this stellar timeline!!!!

INTRODUCTION

In 2022 I attended Star Wars Celebration in Anaheim, California. My first ever Celebration, in fact my first ever convention of any kind, at the young age of 45. By this point I had been working for Youtini.com, as “Keeper Of The Timeline”, for 3 years, maintaining my own timeline spreadsheets for about 20 years, and reading Star Wars books and comics for approximately 40 years. I left Celebration inspired and determined and this research project in your hands is the result of 2 years work (nearly to the day) revisiting every single story you will find in the pages to follow to deliver the most comprehensive, definitive, detailing of the Star Wars Legends timeline.

But what is it about Timelines? I’ve been a Star Wars fan for as long as I can remember. Born in 1976 I can’t remember a time that it wasn’t my primary obsession. There’s an old photo of me on what must have been my 7th or 8th birthday, and my bedroom is Star Wars top to bottom. In this one photo you can see the toys (of course), some of the old Marvel UK comics, but also wallpaper, curtains, bedspreads.... I’m pretty sure I had a Star Wars toothbrush too!

When the books and comics saw their resurgence in the 90s, it was like Star Wars had never gone away. I remember writing to an old school friend telling him he really must read the Thrawn trilogy and Jedi Academy trilogy, even calling them Episodes 7,8,9 and 10,11,12.

Later, I can pinpoint the exact moment my timeline obsession started.....Crimson Empire #1, written by Randy Stradley, published by Dark Horse Comics in 1997. In this issue we see the some of the events of the Dark Empire trilogy from a different POV, with subsequent issues continuing this never seen before arc as the two storylines overlapped in new ways. Then came the lists, handwritten, constantly updated lists of the books and comics and the order that they “occurred”. Then the internet happened, and I discovered Chris McElroys Time Tales (printed off in full for me by my girlfriend at the time, after hours in her office job) and later Nathan P. Butlers Timeline Gold. Both have been a huge influence on me over the years, as well as Joe Bongiorno’s starwarstimeline.net. but I’ve always taken a different approach in just listing stories rather than summarising them.

How does this timeline work? As per nearly every other timeline you will find I work with the BBY/ABY (years before or after the Battle Of Yavin). Where this timeline will differ is that I include everything. You might expect to find novels and comics, movies, and TV shows, but this timeline includes every single piece of licensed Star Wars fiction (including in-universe documents) published between 1976 and 2014, when Disney rebranded the “Expanded Universe” as “Legends”, and announced they would be resetting the canon to only include the movies and the Clone Wars TV show and clearing the way for future storytelling.

I also happily split books and comics up by chapters, sometimes pages, to include all parts at the “time” that they happened, to detail the timeline in a way that has never been presented before.

I have also been bold with some of my assertions and tried to make sense of the most congested sections of the timelines, such as immediately before and after “A New Hope”, and in order to do this I have broken the timeline down by months, weeks, days, where appropriate to really convey this sense of events as they happened.

Please bear in mind that no matter how well researched, this is still just my interpretation, but you will find my justifications presented in the way of nearly 1500 footnotes providing explanations for certain choices, background information on various stories, or just fun facts.

In total this timeline collects approximately 160 adult novels, 120 junior reader books, 67 childrens books, 924 single issue comics, 47 graphic novels, 51 video games, and material from 117 informational books, as well as countless short stories, numerous magazines, online fiction, and so much more besides!

A note about “The Clone Wars” ... when the “Expanded Universe” was reset in 2014, “The Clone Wars” had been running since 2008 was already in its 5th season. Unfortunately during its run, it had already proved itself irreconcilable with the Clone Wars multimedia project than ran between 2002-2005, filling the gaps between “Star Wars Episode II – Attack Of The Clones” and “Star Wars Episode III – Revenge Of The Sith”. As such, there are essentially three different Star Wars timelines that exist, the original Legends timeline, the Canon timeline, and a Clone Wars timeline purely containing TCW tie-in stories released between 2008 and 2014. Outside of the episodes of the show itself, these stories are also now Legends, despite not working with the rest of the Legends timeline and therefore I have made the decision to add all of these tie-in stores as a separate Clone Wars-specific timeline.

This book truly has been a labour of love, and I really hope you enjoy reading it as much as I’ve enjoyed compiling it.

May the Force be with you.

End of the Legends Timeline

FOOTNOTES

- 1) A portion of the epic in-universe poem “Dha Werda Verda” was included in a segment of “The Essential Guide To Warfare” titled “A Soldier’s Tale: Notron In Flames”.
- 2) An in-universe document can be any number of things: a diary entry, a news report, an interview, an email, or even a performance.
- 3) The difference between a vignette and a short story is length. A vignette is usually just a couple of paragraphs or less.
- 4) Fantasy Flight Games were the third license holder of Star Wars role-playing games material, after West End Games and Wizards Of The Coast. They produced much less fiction content than their predecessors, but many of the sourcebooks contained a 1-2 page short stories at the start. These stories are all untitled, so I’ve used the title of the sourcebook instead. Very little timeline-fixing details, so I have used my best judgement as ever. This is the only FFG sourcebook that has a short story within the sourcebook itself, rather than opening with one, hence the page number.
- 5) I haven’t included page numbers for short stores from magazines like Insider, Galaxy, or Gamer, as there is usually only one short story per issue.
- 6) The first example of the unexpected place Star Wars fiction has appeared over the decades.
- 7) “The Pirate Prince” is an in-universe play that was included in a series of blog posts, titled “Xim: The Desoptica”, at starwars.com.
- 8) There are a number of entries on this timeline ascribed to a single character, whether they be holocron recordings, journals, diary entries etc. Often these lack an actual title to the in-universe narration, so I have simply called them “Recordings”.
- 9) In “The Essential Guide To The Force” there are often multiple, separate teachings from one character, and I’ve grouped these together for ease.
- 10) After the release of “The Essential Guide To Warfare” material that was written for the book, but ultimately cut during editing, was included in a series of blog posts published on starwars.com. Although it technically pushes the definition of “published story”, I have included that material, nonetheless.
- 11) One of the collectible items a player can find in “The Old Republic” MMORPG are CODEX, with each one relaying history and lore from the Star Wars universe. Some of these CODEX actually included in-universe reports or documents, or even original fiction.
- 12) “Xim At Vontor” is an in-universe holodrama script that was included in a series of blog posts, titled “Xim: The Desoptica”, at starwars.com.
- 13) With little information to go on, I’ve placed this close to Ajunta Pall’s death in 6895 BBY.
- 14) In the build up to the release of “The Old Republic” video game the publishers, Bioware, released a series of videos featuring Jedi Master Gnost-Dural, narrated by Lance Henriksen, talking about various events in Star Wars history leading up to the time period the game is set in. These videos can still be found on Youtube.
- 15) This vignette from “Tales Of The Jedi Companion”, published by West End Games, is unnamed within the book, so I have taken the liberty of naming it after the section it appears in.
- 16) The character bios in “Tales Of The Jedi Companion” were actually new vignettes of original fiction, as opposed to a factual biography of said character.
- 17) While unnamed in the sourcebook, the title “A Tale From The Dark Side” was given when it was later published on the paid-for “Hyperspace” section of starwars.com.
- 18) “Adventure Journal” was a quarterly publication, from West End Games, that served as a companion to the role-playing game, including articles, adventure hooks, and original fiction. Cancelled after 16 issues, material written for later issues eventually surfaced online.
- 19) “Ruins Of Kabus-Dabeh” is a choose-your-own-adventure module included in “Tales Of The Jedi Companion”. I made the decision not include RPG adventure modules as they usually just give an adventure hook and let players decide how they want to play it; however a choose-your-own adventure story does indeed tell a full story.
- 20) The book gives an estimated date of 4400-4000 BBY for this recording but it was clearly recorded after the events of “The Freedon Nadd Uprising”.

- 21) Master Baas had seemingly gained the knowledge of how to transfer his consciousness into the holocron and include details about his own death.
- 22) This entry deals with one of the Tatooine Sarlaac's earliest victims.
- 23) "Star Wars Tales" was an anthology comic series that ran for 24 issues from 1999 to 2005, published by Dark Horse Comics. Issues 1-20 were classed as "infinities" and not canon to the Legends continuity until such time as they were referenced in another, more legitimate, story. However, I have tried to include them all anyway!
- 24) Assuming Zayne Carrick is 6 years old here.
- 25) These one-page holonews reports were included within the pages of the single issue comics.
- 26) The "Lost Tribe Of The Sith" short stories were released periodically online and later collected in paperback.
- 27) "The Journal Of Master Gnost-Dural" is a hardback book, containing the in-universe diary of Gnost-Dural, that was only available in the collector's edition box of "The Old Republic" MMORPG video game.
- 28) In the run up to the release of "The Old Republic", and also to launch later game updates, Bioware released several cinematic trailers that helped to set the story.
- 29) Assuming (for ease) that the day 1 of the campaign was the first day of the year.
- 30) Since the launch of "The Old Republic" in 2011 the 'Developer's Blog' section of swtor.com has seen many short stories and in-universe documents published there, although often without a credited author.
- 31) "The Sixth Line" was originally published, at swtor.com, in 2 parts. However, it is actually one continuous story except for the last few sentences, which serve as a post-timejump epilogue despite there being nothing within the story itself to indicate this.
- 32) "The Old Republic" MMORPG has a number of starting classes to choose your character from, each one with vastly different storylines, spanning differing amounts of time. Despite never having played TOR (I am more of a console gamer), I have studied the lore in-depth enough that I think I have placed them as close to a "correct" timeline order as possible. The "Chapter" titles are from "The Old Republic Encyclopaedia".
- 33) "Rise Of The Hutt Cartel" was the first of many expansions for TOR.
- 34) It is only with this story that the authors name started to be included.
- 35) At the time of writing, this was the last short story/story content to be released for "The Old Republic" but the game is still going strong.
- 36) See much later footnotes for further information on SWG tie-ins.
- 37) There is nothing in this entry to help specifically date it, but it needed to beat a point that the Great Sith War was ancient history.
- 38) Arbitrary placement. Komok-da is said to be a descendant of the Sith species. It also needs to a time of a large Sith presence, so before Darth Bane's rule of two.
- 39) 30 years before his death at Battle Of Ruusan is enough time for him to found the Sith academy, as mentioned in this entry.
- 40) The comic series "Jedi Vs. Sith" was our first introduction to Darth Bane and the Battle Of Ruusan, later expanded upon in the novel "Darth Bane: Path of Destruction". It is told in a much more non-linear way compared to the novel, and the page number order here reflects that.
- 41) There are a number of quotes in "The Essential Atlas" sprinkled throughout history.
- 42) There is no official timeline placement for this story, and little in the story itself to suggest one. However, it is definitely after Darth Bane has established the Rule of Two, and it was included in Marvel's "Epic Collection: The Old Republic Vol 4" (albeit in a difference placement than I have it here), so I've picked a random year far enough out from the Bane trilogy that 2 brand new Sith would make sense.
- 43) "Evocar" is an in-universe audio-production script that was included in a series of blog posts, titled "Xim: The Desoptica", at starwars.com.
- 44) Placed this before the author, Allya, turns to dark side in approx. 600 BBY.
- 45) This entry states that Rekpa was training padawans at a time when Yoda was still just a Jedi Knight.
- 46) "Star Wars Adventures" was a series of digest-sized graphic novels published by Dark Horse Comics.
- 47) This entries cover the rediscovery of the Cularin system, which will feature as a central location in "The Living Force" campaign later.
- 48) This is a duplicate of an entry that originally appeared in "The Living Force Campaign Guide".

- 49) This flashback to one of the Sarlaac's earlier victims dates itself as "many centuries" before the frame story.
- 50) While the original publication of this IU book was approx. 990 BBY, Luke's note specifies that this edition is from 115 BBY.
- 51) The book states that the Potentium was founded "in the penultimate century of the Old Republic".
- 52) West End Games held the licence to produce Star Wars roleplaying games from 1989 to 1997. As well as numerous rulebooks, adventure campaigns, and sourcebooks, they also produced a number of sourcebooks specifically dedicated to some of the earlier Bantam adult novels.
- 53) In 1998 Dark Horse Comics launched the first ongoing monthly comic series since the original Marvel run of the 70s and 80s. Simply called "Star Wars" it was rebranded as "Star Wars: Republic" from issue #46. "Vow Of Justice" was the back-up story in issues #4-6.
- 54) This quote refers to the construction of Mos Espa as a town.
- 55) "Prelude Of Rebellion #0" was a flash-imbedded comic published at starwars.com that never saw a physical printing until Marvel's "Epic Collection: Rise Of The Sith Volume 2".
- 56) Having no obvious dating points inside this short vignette (as with a lot of WEG stuff) leaves me free to place this here, thus tying it into the 'birth' of the Millenium Falcon.
- 57) Mace Windu is 14 years old in this story.
- 58) Assuming Quinlan Vos is 2 years old here.
- 59) As we progress into the timeline it becomes necessary to split book chapters up. Each "part" is defined by the spacing within the book, usually when a scene, or POV, changes.
- 60) This flashback is expanded upon in the "Darth Plagueis" novel.
- 61) Dooku is a Jedi Master by this entry and training padawans.
- 62) "The Wrath Of Darth Maul", along with the short story "Restraint" published just a month later, was the first attempt to reconcile Maul's contradictory history, following his resurrection and the introduction of his Nightsister background in "The Clone Wars", with what had already been established. See "Note On The Clone Wars" at the start of this book for more information.
- 63) "The New Essential Characters" ages Aurra Sing as being 9 years old here, but she definitely isn't drawn that way.
- 64) This vignette, from "The Essential Guide To The Force" is ascribed to Mace, albeit with an "alleged" subtitle, but it is dated as being recorded in 215 BBY. Unless Mace is actually hundreds of years old in "The Phantom Menace" then this is obviously an error. I have placed it after "Children Of The Force" as both stories deal with Mace's parentage to some degree.
- 65) This section of "The Bounty Hunters Code" refers to the flashback events of "Jango Fett: Open Seasons #2" as being "a decade ago".
- 66) "Challenge Magazine" was a long-running magazine covering role-playing games, that ran from 1986-1996. It featured a number of Star Wars articles and adventure hooks to be used in conjunction with the "West End Games" system. Some of the articles opened with a vignette of original fiction. While they were all written with the Original Trilogy in mind (since this was the early 1990's), the presence of a Jedi in this example has led me to place it in the Prequel Trilogy era.
- 67) "Restraint" greatly expands on the events of "The Wrath Of Darth Maul" with both narratives overlapping in a way that makes it impossible to timeline without going line-by-line.
- 68) Between 2012 and 2013 Sideshow Toys released their "Star Wars Mythos" lines of statuettes, with each featured character having a new vignette published on their website.
- 69) Working on the assumption that Dass Jennir is 30 years old in "Dark Times", and 15 here.
- 70) The "Episode I Adventures" series, published by Scholastic, was a mix of storytelling and role-playing with each entry having both a junior novel and a gamebook. To get the full story you would need to read both.
- 71) The "6 months before" placement is not confirmed within the story itself, but has generally been accepted as accurate over time.
- 72) This is a rare example of a Dorling Kindersley young readers book featuring original content, rather than just adapting movie scenes. In this example it's the newly crowned Queen Amidala keeping a diary about her first days as Queen.
- 73) Amidala and Handmaidens training with Captain Panaka.
- 74) The "6 weeks" is explicitly specified in the comic.

- 75) There is a handy gap between chapter 15 and 16 that, coupled with Qui-Gon saying “Dispatch my Padawan. If Black Sun is involved, he will be able to sense it.”, provide a perfect spot for the first two chapters of the Obi-Wan video game
- 76) The chapters in this game consist of 4 separate levels each, but there's no need to split them up just yet. Only the first 2 chapters tell an original storyline outside of “The Phantom Menace”.
- 77) This is a tricky one to place since it shows Anakin and Sebulba racing their podracers and Anakin crashing, like he does in the podrace that features in chapter 1 of “The Phantom Menace”. Let's assume this one-on-one race took place about a week before the start of the novelisation, giving Anakin time to make repairs before the next (pre-movie) podrace.
- 78) Most of the SW junior kids books simply adapt part of the movie, but this one sees Watto give the reader a tour of his workshop and says he's off to the podraces. I've assumed he's talking about the pre-movie race that we see in chapter 1 of the movie novelisation rather than the Boonta Eve Classic.
- 79) Since Watto is at the races in the (admittedly barebones) frame story for this game let's assume that it is set during the build up the pre-movie podrace rather than the Boonta Eve Classic.
- 80) The “8 days” statement is based on a sentence in chapter 6 of the novelisation that states it has been “little over a week” since Anakin crashes his podracer.
- 81) As we are now in movie territory I will be using the footnotes to give brief descriptions of key events to help the reader follow how the various sources tie into the movies. In this entry we see Anakin crash his podracer.
- 82) After race > meeting the old Spacer.
- 83) “The Phantom Menace #½”, which contains 4 separate stories, was originally only available in a special edition of Wizard Magazine before being collected in the “Episode I Adventures” graphic novel.
- 84) After meeting the old Spacer.
- 85) The Trade Federation blockades Naboo.
- 86) A week after “Darth Maul: Shadow Hunter” chapter 36 and “Darth Plagueis” chapter 3.
- 87) Amidala attempts to negotiate with the TF but it's a trap and Bravo Squadron helps the Royal starship escape.
- 88) There is an overlap with the previous level as Vana Sage overhears a transmission regarding the events of that level.
- 89) Chancellor Valorum asks Qui-Gon to travel to Naboo.
- 90) I have split each movie into days, based on timeline cues from the novelisations (mostly) such as time of day etc, however I have based the start of that breakdown on the movies, rather than the novelisations. The date format used here, xx:xx:xx, is from the Great ReSynchronisation calendar, or GrS. First used by West End Games as a dating system for their holonet articles, it was later used by Pablo Hidalgo for the Holonet News articles published on starwars.com as a lead in to “Attack Of The Clones”. As the ABY/BBY calendar is (obviously) based on the Battle of Yavin there is a 3 month difference between that and the GrS system, as the Battle Of Yavin happens in the 3rd month on the GrS calendar. There will be a lot more GrS dates later in the timeline.
- 91) Obi-Wan and Qui-Gon are on their way to Naboo.
- 92) The Jedi arrive at Naboo > “Stunted slime”.
- 93) Maul recalled to Coruscant (not sure from where as he was on the planet as recently as the end of “Darth Maul: Shadow Hunter”) > “Stunted slime”.
- 94) Although these Episode I journals mostly just adapt scenes from the movie, the fact they are written from the in-universe perspective of the characters necessitates their full inclusion on the timeline.
- 95) “At this very moment, Jedi ambassadors are meeting secretly with the Federation's viceroy”
- 96) Gas attack.
- 97) The first level of this chapter has a very similar premise to the upcoming entries from Jedi Power Battles and Obi-Wan's Adventures. However this level specifically deals with the escape from the gas attack in the conference room to trying to gain access to the bridge before the arrival of the Droidekas, whereas the other two levels deal with the journey to the hangar of the Trade Federation ship.
- 98) “Close the blast doors” > “Your trade boycott has ended”.
- 99) “Your trade boycott has ended”.

- 100) This is a generic hack n slash action game for the Gameboy Color. It clearly wasn't intended to be played with continuity in mind, but it definitely adds some new elements. In this level Obi-Wan is fighting through droids on his way to the hangar.
- 101) Choosing Qui-Gon as the playable character in this level allows both Jedi their own story of escaping the Trade Federation ship.
- 102) Hangar > "Negotiations were short".
- 103) OOM-9's forces disrupt communications on the planet, leading to Sio Bibble's iconic line "A communications disruption can only mean one thing. Invasion!" Oddly enough, this scene doesn't appear in the novelisation.
- 104) A similar premise to the next entry, but as Obi-Wan is only tasked with taking out communications (and not crashing the ship) and we don't actual see his disembark there is no reason why the two levels couldn't happen consecutively.
- 105) Obi-Wan forces the landing craft to crashland on Naboo and then fights his way through the swamp to rendezvous with Qui-Gon.
- 106) As before, choosing Qui-Gon as the playable character allows both Jedi their own story of navigation the swamps.
- 107) The Jedi land on Naboo > an audience with Boss Nass.
- 108) This is a 2-player bonus level that sees players competing to be the first to get Jar Jar into a cell, which ties nicely into the next entry.
- 109) This game isn't divided into levels, and is less linear than other games. As an adaptation of the movie I'm only including sections that provide unique scenes or events.
- 110) Jar Jar is taken into custody on his return to Otoh Gunga (inadvertently but conveniently explained by the previous Jedi Power Battles entry) and Obi-Wan has to find and rescue him.
- 111) The next chapter of the book is from Anakin's POV and shows time pass from this day to the next. The chapter after that starts at dawn with the full Trade Federation invasion. Therefore we have to assume that the bongo journey through the planet's core took all night.
- 112) Sunset.
- 113) "Over a week" since the podrace crash. Anakin saves the Tusken. Night > sunrise.
- 114) This 3 page comic was released to promote the "Invasion Of Theed" roleplaying game.
- 115) Droids in Theed.
- 116) "The invasion started at dawn".
- 117) "The city had fallen shortly after sunrise"
- 118) This bongo-centred level is a tricky level to squeeze in, but lets assume at some point after they came through the core but before they surface in Theed, they spent sometime above ground piloting the bongo, through enemies, along the rivers of the Naboo swamps.
- 119) This waterfall scene is the only original scene in this particular book, and is itself based on a deleted scene from the movie.
- 120) After getting separated from Qui-Gon and Jar Jar shortly after arriving in Theed, Obi-Wan has to navigate the city to find them.
- 121) Obi-Wan's solo adventures through the city continue.
- 122) As before, choosing Qui-Gon as the playable character complements levels from other games.
- 123) Obi-Wan finds out the Trade Federation has the Queen and is going to force her to sign a treaty.
- 124) The Trade Federation has taken control of the planet.
- 125) Obi-Wan tells Qui-Gon what he's learned about the Queen's capture, ends with Queen's rescue.
- 126) The Jedi and Amidala escape Naboo > Darth Sidious sends Maul to find them.
- 127) Darth Sidious sends Maul to find them.
- 128) "Controlled by the Hutts".
- 129) Headed to Tatooine.
- 130) Padme meets Jar Jar.
- 131) Anakin sees the Naboo cruiser enter atmosphere before having a nap.
- 132) Arrive on Tatooine

- 133) Fun fact – this level is the only time we ever see it rain on Naboo.
- 134) Qui-Gon battles Tusken Raiders on the way into town and then has dealings with several of its citizens before meeting Watto and Anakin.
- 135) Arrive in Mos Espa.
- 136) This book provides an original story and ends with our heroes entering Watto's shop.
- 137) Mos Espa, mid-afternoon, meeting Watto.
- 138) Watto's shouting wakes Anakin up and he meets Qui-Gon and Padme.
- 139) The heroes enter Watto's shop.
- 140) Meeting Anakin > leaving shop.
- 141) Qui-Gon continues his dealing with the people of Mos Espa,, including a meeting with Jabba.
- 142) "another solution will present itself".
- 143) "another solution will present itself" > Sebulba fight > sandstorm.
- 144) Sebulba fight > sandstorm.
- 145) Sandstorm.
- 146) "Send no transmission".
- 147) Queen Amidala (actually Sabe) is captured by Tusken Raiders and Obi-Wan has to rescue her.
- 148) The end of this level has the crew learning that something big is happening on Naboo. Maybe they intercepted the Sio Bibble transmission.
- 149) Anakin's home > "He was meant to help you".
- 150) "He was meant to help you".
- 151) "We will have our revenge".
- 152) Maul leaves Coruscant.
- 153) Maul in hyperspace. Only certain parts of this book contain original scenes.
- 154) "Trusting our fate to a boy we hardly know".
- 155) Originally published as a weekly webcomic on starwars.com, the page numbers are from its inclusion in the "Wild Space Vol. 2" omnibus from Dark Horse Comics (to date, the only place to find it in print).
- 156) "There is no father" > working on the podracer.
- 157) Working on the podracer.
- 158) Afternoon.
- 159) Maul leaves hyperspace, boards freighter and gets wounded in the fight.
- 160) Maul on Tatooine (twilight).
- 161) Probe droids sent, Maul dresses his wound.
- 162) Night.
- 163) Blood test (night).
- 164) Anakin wakes up > "You mean you've never won a race?"
- 165) "You mean you've never won a race?"
- 166) Side adventure with Padme and Jar Jar before the race starts.
- 167) Probe droids searching.
- 168) Maul meditates and trains against droids while he waits.
- 169) Tusken attack Maul. Probe droids report back.
- 170) This video game aimed at younger players to aid learning is stretching the "unique narrative" angle that I use to determine whether a piece of media gets included on the timeline, but since it does include lots of new character dialogue while Anakin hangs out in a kind of lounge with other podracers we could say that this 'happens' at some point before the Boonta Eve Classic starts.
- 171) Starting grid.
- 172) Race starts (mid-morning).
- 173) Race.
- 174) After race.
- 175) "You swindled me".

- 176) "You swindled me > "I'll return the eopies by midday." A neat example of timelines in different sources fitting perfectly. Page 4 says its been "40 minutes" since the arena cleared, and chapter 14 part 2 of the novelisation says "within an hour" and the two scenes overlap neatly.
- 177) "I'll return the eopies by midday."
- 178) Anakin vs bullies fight.
- 179) After Anakin vs bullies fight.
- 180) After Sebulba buys Anakin's podracer.
- 181) Anakin packing > saying goodbyes.
- 182) Journey from Mos Espa to the Royal Cruiser, fighting Tusken Raiders and a giant armadillo.
- 183) Maul attacks.
- 184) Qui-Gon jumps onto ramp.
- 185) Anakin and Padme on Royal Cruiser.
- 186) Anakin asleep on Royal Cruiser.
- 187) Night.
- 188) Maul arrives on Coruscant (night).
- 189) As the previous mission was night-time, this must be the following morning. This game does a really good job of showing the passage of the days over its levels.
- 190) Amidala is inbound to Coruscant.
- 191) Arrive on Coruscant.
- 192) Captain Panaka has to deliver Amidala to the Senate.
- 193) Qui-Gon tells Obi-Wan to meet him at the Jedi Temple, and whatever route Obi-Wan took clearly required him to fight his way through a ton of unidentified enemies (and use a blaster for some reason.....so uncivilised).
- 194) The player (Qui-Gon?) had to fight mercenaries who are trying to stop you from reaching the Jedi Temple.
- 195) Qui-Gon reports to the Jedi Council.
- 196) A timeline error here as part 4 dates itself as the day after part 3 but our heroes are only on Coruscant for one day, arriving early and leaving late.
- 197) Amidala appeals to the Senate.
- 198) After Amidala appeals to the Senate.
- 199) Anakin tries to see Padme.
- 200) The scenes shown in entry 12 part 1 & entry 11 part 2 are in reverse order compared with the novelisation.
- 201) Just before Anakin meets the Jedi Council.
- 202) Anakin is tested by the Council.
- 203) Palpatine nominated for Chancellor.
- 204) Anakin has a side adventure while Qui-Gon argues with the Council.
- 205) "He will not be trained".
- 206) Palpatine watch Amidala board the ship.
- 207) Leaving Coruscant.
- 208) Late afternoon > evening.
- 209) "I am sending Darth Maul to join you".
- 210) Maul in hyperspace to Naboo.
- 211) The plot of "Tatooine Ghost" sees Leia finding the journal of Shmi. The timestamps are time of day.
- 212) En route back to Naboo, Amidala calls a meeting with the Jedi and Captain Panaka.
- 213) Maul arrives on Naboo.
- 214) This entry tells a different version of Mauls interactions with Viceroy Gunray than the previous entry.
- 215) This bonus level sees battle droids racing kaadu through the swamps, let us assume they're just taking time out of their search for the Gungans.
- 216) The heroes arrive on Naboo.
- 217) Boss Nass journey's to the Sacred Place
- 218) Swamps > "Maybe wesa bein friends".
- 219) "Maybe wesa bein friends".

- 220) In this level Darth Maul helps the droids to locate the hidden Gungan cities, which is expanded upon in "Darth Maul: Endgame".
- 221) Panaka is sent on a recon mission.
- 222) "Lord Maul, be mindful".
- 223) Padme and Boss Nass planning.
- 224) Sykes meets with Panaka to learn the Queen's plan and then attacks a Trade Federation convoy on it's way to Theed.
- 225) "Wipe them out, all of them".
- 226) States it's the day before the vote, which I think is incorrect, since the vote should happen on the same day as the battle. Sunset on coruscant (which upsets my "days are the same everywhere" policy).
- 227) Qui-Gon tasks Obi-Wan with finding a safe route to Theed.
- 228) This level sees Obi-Wan having to rescue Amidala (actually probably Sabe since she's in ceremonial garb) from the Trade Federation, so presumably she was captured (again) off-screen as the group begin implementing their plan.
- 229) Qui-Gon flies a STAP through the streets of Theed.
- 230) In this bonus level you control a destroyer droid on the rampage through the Palace until stopped by Qui-Gon and Obi-Wan.
- 231) Sidious kills Plagueis (the sun is rising on Coruscant).
- 232) Player has to navigate the cliffs to reach the Palace and free Naboo pilots.
- 233) Another level dealing with freeing the pilots being held captive in the Palace.
- 234) Droid and Gungan armies assemble (midday).
- 235) Obi-Wan has to destroy the turbolaser covering the hangar.
- 236) Arrive at hangar.
- 237) Droid army attack starts.
- 238) Maul on his way to the hangar.
- 239) This is one of 3 bonus missions, and as such don't follow the linear path of the main story so I've placed it where I think works best. The other 2 don't fit continuity wise as "Coruscant Encounter" sees Darth Maul's Sith Infiltrator destroyed in the skies of Coruscant, and "The Dark Side" sees the player turning against the Naboo and working for Sidious.
- 240) Maul arrives in hangar.
- 241) Level ends with the N1 starfighters leaving the hangar.
- 242) Nym and crew provide air support for the Gungan army.
- 243) Ground battle continues, Anakin takes off, Jedi fight Maul (up to Qui-Gons meditation).
- 244) Panaka and Amidala fight their way through Theed and the Palace.
- 245) "They win this round" > droid control ship blows.
- 246) Bravo Ten must take out receiver dishes on one of the Trade Federation control ships to break the signal to the droid starfighters and takedown the mercenary leader. In game dialogue places that second event as the same time Anakin blows the main control ship.
- 247) Anakin blows ship.
- 248) Droids deactivated.
- 249) Maul defeated.
- 250) Anakin back in hangar.
- 251) Palpatine wins Supreme Chancellor vote.
- 252) While the novelisation specifies that the celebration is 3 days after the battle, in this prologue we see Anakin watching people clear rubble from the aftermath, which I'm assuming is the following day.
- 253) The novelisation specifies that Obi-Wan's conversation with Yoda is 3 days after the battle.
- 254) Qui-Gon's funeral.
- 255) Contradicts the previous entry by stating Palpatine didn't learn of Mauls death until arriving on Theed.
- 256) The novelisation specifies that the parade is the day after the funeral.
- 257) Features a voiceover from Yoda with new dialogue.

- 258) This video game sees Boss Nass asking for Obi-Wan and Amidala's help in maintaining the ecosystem of the Naboo moon Ohma-D'un. I'm setting this shortly after "The Phantom Menace", presumably before Obi-Wan returns to Coruscant, as we know they don't see each other again until "Attack Of The Clones".
- 259) Leaving Naboo.
- 260) "The Living Force" was a long running role-playing supplement, featuring adventure modules and articles, published on wizards.com. There was also an incredible amount of new fiction that was published alongside it.
- 261) This in-universe letter acts as an introduction to this sourcebook, and dates itself as a year after "The Phantom Menace".
- 262) Anakin's 11th birthday. In an old blog post on starwars.com Abel G. Pena confirmed Anakin was born in 41.9 BBY. Wookieepedia has, for some reason, rounded that up to 42, when it reality it's more likely to mean either the ninth month of 41 BBY, or nine-tenths of the way into the year. As "The Phantom Menace" contains this sentence "One day soon he would win a lot of races. Maybe even next year, when he reached the age of ten." one could surmise that he has already had a birthday in 32 BBY (turning from 8 years old to 9). Since "The Phantom Menace" starts on 3:4:14, and the BBY/ABY year starts on the third month of the GrS calendar (see later note), we can assume Anakin's birthday is within the first 6 weeks of the BBY/ABY calendar. However, the "Attack Of The Clones" novelisation mentions Anakin's 20th birthday happening shortly before the events of the movie. Since "Attack Of The Clones" is confirmed to start on 13:5:16, Anakin's birthday is within a few days of the 15th day of the 5th month of the GrS calendar, or the 15th day of the second month on the BBY/ABY calendar.
- 263) The opening cutscene to this part of the game features Watto, looking visibly younger than in "Attack Of The Clones", owning Anakin's podracer (which he must've bought from Sebulba at some point) claiming that this is supposed to be his "comeback year" hence me placing it a number of years after "The Phantom Menace".
- 264) Dan Wallace definitely stated in an Insider article in 2012 that the manga stories were not intended to be canon, but since 2014 all of legends is non-canon, so I'm including them nonetheless.
- 265) This video game is specifically set 8 years after "The Phantom Menace" and sees Anakin back in the pod racing scene!
- 266) This adventure gamebook as a lot of original fiction in it, giving a lot more background to the life of Drake Paulsen, as well as an original adventure. This particular story features Karl Ancher as, evidenced by the illustration, a much younger man than the one we eventually meet in "Out Of The Cradle" so I've placed it 20 years earlier.
- 267) Although this story featured in the "Clone Wars Adventures" series of comics the conflict isn't mentioned so I've placed it slightly earlier in the timeline.
- 268) This comic, that was only available from Toys'R'Us, shows an original space battle between Obi-Wan and Jango Fett that mirrors their encounter in "Attack Of The Clones". However, Obi-Wan never gets sight of his attacker.
- 269) Anakin and Obi-Wan fighting training droids before being assigned mission. Presumably the author intended this to lead into "Attack Of The Clones", but considering "Anakin: Apprentice" more clearly covers that plot point I've taken this story to mean the Ansion mission instead.
- 270) "Coming up on Ansion".
- 271) Anakin's 20th birthday.
- 272) The same text is used in an entry on page 213 of "Jedi Vs. Sith: The Essential Guide To The Force".
- 273) Shmi kidnapped.
- 274) Jango leaves Kamino. The passage of time over the next chapters is conveniently measured by the amount of sea mice Boba has left to feed to his pet eel, starting with 5 here helping place it 3 days before the start of Attack Of The Clones (movie), as per my later evidence.
- 275) 3 sea mice left.
- 276) Morning, 2 sea mice left.
- 277) Naboo ship explosion.
- 278) Reports that Amidala has been killed.

- 279) Palpatine announces Amidala's death to Senate before she suddenly arrives (less than an hour after explosion) > jedi meeting with Palpatine > Yoda/Mace chat.
- 280) Breaking News report confirming Amidala's survival.
- 281) Anakin seems surprised to learn Padme is on Coruscant despite already being aware in "Attack Of The Clones" chapter 4.
- 282) Obi-Wan and Anakin are on their way to meet Padme, ends with them entering the turbolift.
- 283) Meeting Padme.
- 284) After meeting Padme.
- 285) Padme before bed > Anakin takes speeder.
- 286) This level of this Gameboy Advance game tells a different version of the journey Anakin takes from Padme's apartment to commandeering the speeder.
- 287) Speeder chase > Zam's death.
- 288) Report to Council.
- 289) Padme packing.
- 290) Boarding bus.
- 291) See later note on why I've split this chapter.
- 292) 1 seamouse left, Afternoon.
- 293) Obi-Wan in Archives > Dex's Diner.
- 294) While Obi-Wan meets Dex. This story is unique in that the characters entry in the old starwars.com databank was new fiction rather than the standard factual biography.
- 295) No seamice left.
- 296) Anakin and Padme on freighter.
- 297) Jango back on Kamino.
- 298) Anakin and Padme arrive on Naboo.
- 299) "I don't like sand" > Obi-Wan arrives at Kamino.
- 300) Jango and Boba fishing.
- 301) I've made the decision to split chapter 10 up and move this Jango/Boba scene a couple of days down the timeline to fix continuity issue here, assuming this is the same fishing trip as shown in "The Fight To Survive" chapter 4. "The Fight To Survive" states Jango takes Boba fishing "the day after" his return from Coruscant and the same day as the later scene of Boba admiring Obi-Wan's starfighter on the same day, which is on "Attack Of The Clones" day 4, whereas chapter 10 of the novelisation is on day 2. Moving this one part doesn't break anything but does fix that issue.
- 302) Meadow scene (afternoon) > fireplace scene.
- 303) Boba admiring Obi-Wan's starfighter.
- 304) Tour of Kamino
- 305) "Pack your things".
- 306) Boba packing.
- 307) Anakin waking from his nightmare is a good starting point for day 5, however it does mean that Obi-Wans investigations on Kamino carry on through the night.
- 308) Anakin and Padme en route to Tatooine.
- 309) Boba at library on Kamino.
- 310) Obi-Wan calls Mace and Yoda.
- 311) I've split chapter 17 by including chapter 18 midway through to account for the Naboo>Tatooine and Kamino>Geonosis hyperspace jumps.
- 312) Obi-Wan vs Jango fight.
- 313) Anakin and Padme arrive on Tatooine.
- 314) Meeting Watto.
- 315) Slave I enters hyperspace.
- 316) Meeting the Lars family.
- 317) "My mother has been captured".

- 318) This entry refers to the traditional stocking-fillers hardback annual as opposed to a comic series annual. This particular one had in-universe diaries for both Anakin and C-3PO.
- 319) "Master Anakin has gone to hunt for his mother".
- 320) Kamino > Geonosis > seismic charge.
- 321) Obi-Wan lands on Geonosis > Anakin searching for Shmi.
- 322) Obi-Wan spying on Separatist leaders.
- 323) Shmi's death.
- 324) Boba wakes up (morning).
- 325) Anakin returns to homestead.
- 326) Unique Anakin/Padme dialogue.
- 327) "I killed them all".
- 328) Boba spots Obi-Wan and alerts Geonosians.
- 329) Obi-Wan captured > Anakin receives transmission.
- 330) Leaving Tatooine.
- 331) "If only Senator Amidala was here".
- 332) Anakin and Padme arrive at Geonosis.
- 333) R2-D2 leaves ship.
- 334) Droid factory.
- 335) Anakin and Padme captured > C-3PO losing his head.
- 336) "Immediate emergency powers".
- 337) Padme sentenced.
- 338) Transporting the clone army to Geonosis.
- 339) Arena fight starts.
- 340) Arena fight > Mace arriving.
- 341) "Aggressive negotiations".
- 342) Jango killed.
- 343) Gunships inbound.
- 344) Gunships arrive.
- 345) Boba and helmet.
- 346) Dooku leaves arena.
- 347) Adi's gunship squadron attacks Geonosian power plant.
- 348) Arena almost empty.
- 349) Toth heading to Geonosis with Hex weapons.
- 350) Dooku duel.
- 351) This level ends after Dooku's escape.
- 352) After battle.
- 353) Night.
- 354) Has to be before the epilogue as Anakin is with the surgeon replacing hand.
- 355) Dooku arrives at Coruscant.
- 356) Mace back on Coruscant.
- 357) The "Clone Wars" microseries was originally released as individual episodes, but on Disney+ they can only be viewed as continuous seasons with no chapter splits, so I've added the planet to the entry to clarify which section of the show each entry relates to.
- 358) This was the first issue to carry the new "Republic" title.
- 359) The primary storyline of the first two seasons of the "Clone Wars" microseries was told throughout the seasons, interspersed by other adventures.
- 360) This first episode of Season 3 of "Clone Wars" resolves the Season 2 General Grievous cliffhanger, before a timejump to Anakin's knighting.
- 361) This transcription of a Senate Security Hearing only gives a timeline cue of happening in "the Old Republic" but fits perfectly here in the context of the Clone Wars, despite having been written long before the prequels came out.

- 362) This video game sees Anakin facing off against Dooku, but this was later retconned into being a doppelganger rather than Dooku himself.
- 363) There is a 10 year timejump in "The Living Force" adventure as the writers tried to bring the game up to date with "Attack Of The Clones", however it was done in the unusual way of having a dark side weapon literally force the entire planet of Cularin to disappear from the galaxy for 10 years, before reappearing as if nothing had happened. There are a LOT of entries related to this campaign that happen in the next 3 years and I have spread them out as best I can.
- 364) This storyline is continued a generation later in "Empire #29-34: In The Shadow Of Their Fathers".
- 365) While Yara Grugara interviews Lanius a number of times in the Living Force RPG supplementary materials, none of them (by my estimate) take place in 21 BBY, meaning this entry from "Essential Guide To The Force" is a different interview to any of those as the book specifically dates it as 21 BBY.
- 366) I thought long and hard about whether to include this in the main timeline or just the TCW timeline since it contains many elements from the show, but also weaves in lots of historical Legends info too.
- 367) This and the previous entry are two differing versions of Anakin's promotion to Jedi Knight.
- 368) Issue #71 sees Anakin gaining his facial scar.
- 369) This story is told in a non-linear fashion, as you can tell by the order of the page numbers.
- 370) The Han Solo flashbacks in this issue do not jibe well with his backstory as established in The Paradise Snare, however they were referenced, and Han's age specified, in "The Forgotten War: The Nagai And The Tofs" - an article published on starwars.com in 2009.
- 371) A undetermined amount of time since the last "Cry Of Shadows" entry, based on the length of Hock's hair.
- 372) This game was originally slated to be "Battlefront III" before that game was cancelled. This newer game was released on the PlayStation Portable and the Nintendo DS, with significant differences between the two. This is a standard tutorial level, but is exclusive to the PSP. The DS version starts with the CIS attack on Tatooine.
- 373) Not technically a flashback since it's actually Darth Vader watching a recording of a conversation between himself and the Jedi Council, but it's an interaction not seen anywhere else.
- 374) From the opening battle to the scene where Sidious assigns General Grievous a "special mission". Since this section also includes Anakin getting to visit Padme on Naboo, I've placed it before Labyrinth Of Evil starts. This 3rd season of "Clone Wars" was based on an early draft of "Labyrinth Of Evil", as such the two share many similar plot points but are kind of irreconcilable at the same time.
- 375) "Labyrinth Of Evil" overlaps with the webcomic "Reversal Of Fortune" in a number of ways, which I will try to catalogue here. In chapter 15 – General Grievous rendezvous with the separatist leaders and tells them he will contact them individually with a new safe world to congregate on.
- 376) Following on from the last entry General Grievous tells the Separatist leaders to congregate on Belderone. "Reversal Of Fortune" was the first in a series of webcomics that were published at starwars.com. To date they have never had a physical release.
- 377) Chapter 17 – The Jedi intercept the transmission from the last entry.
- 378) Shu Mai contacts Gunray who wasn't aware of the instruction to meet on Belderone (due to leaving his mech-chair on Cato Neimodia - a big plot point from "Labyrinth Of Evil").
- 379) The Jedi strike at Belderone.
- 380) Palpatine congratulates Anakin for his victory at Belderone.
- 381) This chapter continues the meeting from the last entry.
- 382) The same meeting continues here, so the full scene can only be enjoyed by reading both the book and the comic.
- 383) This story dates itself as being "two and a half days" before Order 66 (which is on ROTS day 3), after the victory at Saleucami, and Aayla deployed to Felucia (but not before stopping off at Endor) which we see then see in Reversal Of Fortune. I think the intention was for it to be 2.5 days before the start of the movie, not necessarily from the issuing of Order 66.
- 384) This story sees Aayla Secura stopping off on Endor before continuing to Felucia.
- 385) The last line of dialogue from "Labyrinth Of Evil" chapter 33 is repeated here, as well as General Grievous's reaction to it.

- 386) Although both PSP & DS versions of this level follow a similar path, the PSP opening cutscene calls this mission an "early victory in the Clone Wars", which, considering the game leads right into the Battle of Coruscant, can't be true.
- 387) The opening crawl implies that this starts not long after the events of "The Phantom Menace" as you make your way to Kashyyyk to meet Yoda and Mace on planet, where Mace talks about the death of Darth Maul being recent. However, the variety of droids you face, the inclusion of trihexalon as a plot point, and the fact that the main storyline of this game runs fairly uninterrupted into the events of "Revenge Of The Sith" make its placement clearly shortly before "Revenge Of The Sith". Mace being on Kashyyyk at this time is tricky, as is the fact that Yoda stays with the players for the whole game.
- 388) This is the start of the day before "Revenge Of The Sith".
- 389) General Grievous takes over Utapau.
- 390) Yoda is still, apparently, still on Kashyyyk as he helps Marva Zane repel an attack by Separatist-backed Trandoshan slavers.
- 391) Obi-Wan and Anakin arrive on Tythe, which will cause some complications with the "Clone Wars" microseries later on.
- 392) After crashlanding on Felucia, the Jedi continue their fight against the Trandoshans, as well as some Zabrak dark Jedi, and hunt Shu Mai. The Jedi and Yoda also learn about the imminent attack on Coruscant. The player then has to fight a space battle against Separatist forces to "clear the way for Master Yoda's fleet", with what appears to be the Invisible Hand in orbit. I don't think it's possible to make Yoda's inclusion in this game's campaign fit into the larger storyline at all, but an argument could be made that Felucia was used as a staging point for General Grievous's attack on Coruscant.
- 393) "Incoming attack alert" received on Coruscant.
- 394) The DS version of this level has an opening cutscene that sees X1 and X2 receiving medals from Palpatine just before the Separatist attack on Coruscant.
- 395) The Battle Of Coruscant starts here.
- 396) "Suns waning rays" on Coruscant. Jedi face Dooku on Tythe. Mace has sent Stass Allie and Shaak Ti to guard Palpatine. Yoda uses beacon to recall Jedi.
- 397) Aayla Secura, en route to Felucia, receives Jedi recall.
- 398) Stass Allie and Shaak Ti meet up.
- 399) These pages expand on "Labyrinth Of Evil" chapter 42.
- 400) "5 hours" into the Battle Of Coruscant.
- 401) General Grievous is still on the Invisible Hand.
- 402) DS version only, X2 escorts Palpatine to safety, faces off against Grievous.
- 403) Obi-Wan and Anakin are sent to Nelvaan as they're on Tythe at this point and there is no window for them to visit Nelvaan. It's this plot point specifically that doesn't mesh well with "Labyrinth Of Evil". At the end of chapter 23 General Grievous smashes through the window of 500 Republica.
- 404) Droids attacking on Coruscant, Mace tells Iguni to return to the Temple.
- 405) During Grievous's attack.
- 406) Felucia.
- 407) Shaak Ti arrives at Palpatine's office, flees Grievous, boards maglev train.
- 408) Shaak Ti boards train.
- 409) The PSP version of the Coruscant level misses out the entire storyline of X1 and X2 receiving medals from Palpatine, and instead starts with X2 in a starfighter in orbit in the heat of the battle. In fact, despite being the more advanced game due to the PSP's processing power compared to the DS, it is actually the DS that provides a more complete storyline.
- 410) Still following the PSP version, X2 is called back groundside to help Mace, culminating in a duel between Mace and Grievous, which makes most sense to happen before "Labyrinth Of Evil" chapter 47.
- 411) "Sun going down". Mace fights Grievous on train > Palpatine kidnapped from bunker.
- 412) Leads in to "Labyrinth Of Evil" chapter 51.
- 413) Mace finds Shaak Ti.
- 414) Continues the scene from "Labyrinth Of Evil" chapter 51.

- 415) Loosely adapts the last few scenes.
- 416) Anakin learns of kidnapping.
- 417) Felucia.
- 418) Grievous boards the Invisible Hand.
- 419) Dooku heads for Coruscant.
- 420) This is where the internal chronology of this book becomes unstuck. The opening section states its 1083 days since BoG, and 3 days into the battle of Coruscant, and the third section being 5 days into the battle. As discussed in the next note, I believe the creators intention was for the battle to all take place on one day. Despite this not being possible, it certainly didn't spread over any more than 2, and I believe this book is the only source to try to establish that the battle lasted multiple days.
- 421) I think the intention of all the creators involved is that Grievous's surprise attack on Coruscant, followed by Palpatine's abduction and the subsequent rescue by Kenobi and Skywalker, are all supposed to happen on the same day. However, the mention of the "sun's waning rays" in "Labyrinth Of Evil" chapter 39, and the "sun going down" in chapter 47, coupled with the fact that it's obviously daylight when the Jedi crashland back on Coruscant, and there is still a full day of movie before the next sunset, all means I can confidently mark the hyperspace jump from Tythe to Coruscant as being the change in days.
- 422) Anakin and Obi-Wan in flight.
- 423) Back to the DS version which sees X2 escort Kenobi and Skywalker through the space battle, and then take out a nearby Droid support cruiser.
- 424) Buzz Droids > landing in hangar.
- 425) Escaping hangar.
- 426) This level of the Jedi fighting through the fuel chamber is based on a cut scene from the movie.
- 427) Dooku duel > turbolift shaft.
- 428) Ray shields > Grievous escape.
- 429) Felucia. Aayla learns of kidnapping. Invisible Hand split in two "moments ago".
- 430) This description of the Battle of Mandalore obviously predates the finale of "The Clone Wars" by decades, and yet still lines up pretty well. I'm placing it here, during the Battle of Coruscant, just as the canon-equivalent event does.
- 431) Although these levels cover certain parts of the events of the movies, their timeline placement is based on the context of the narration by an unidentified clone that leads into each mission.
- 432) The Stellar Envoy follows the Invisible Hand into atmosphere.
- 433) Crash landing > heroes reception.
- 434) "The Chancellor has been returned to us unharmed"
- 435) "Palpatine's back in one piece"
- 436) "Skywalker had lingered behind to talk with Senator Amidala"
- 437) This closing cutscene shows the Padawans being knighted in the presence of Obi-Wan, Mace, Yoda and Chewbacca (who I guess travelled back to Kashyyyk straight after).
- 438) Anakin and Padme (afternoon).
- 439) Anakin's nightmare (night).
- 440) This is an odd story to place due to it referencing events of the Clone Wars but has no other timeline markers. I've placed it here since the characters from the above "Millennium Falcon" segments are mentioned.
- 441) Grievous returns to Utapau and tells the Separatist leaders he will be sending them to Mustafar.
- 442) Ties into previous entry.
- 443) Iguni meets Anakin who is on his way to speak to the Council.
- 444) The opening cutscene of the DS version of this level shows the brothers, X1 and X2, talking on Coruscant before being deployed to Cato Neimodia.
- 445) Sunset.
- 446) Assuming this is directly before the opera scene.
- 447) Opera scene.
- 448) Ki-Adi Mundi is summoned to Mygeeto.
- 449) After opera.

- 450) Quinan Vos on Kashyyyk. Trandoshan slavers and droid army attacking (maybe a second assault after the initial one, seen in the Kinect game, was repelled).
- 451) Padme wakes up (early morning).
- 452) "Two days after the flight of Grievous from Coruscant" (which is about the only date that works after the Separatist's attack, despite it also stating it's now "1,087 days after the Battle of Geonosis", Grievous on Utapau, and "The big push on Kashyyyk's just started."
- 453) This issue has a unique style, bouncing around between then and now as Sha Koon's dying thoughts bounce around the timeline. This flashback refers only to the panels on the right side of the page.
- 454) "Ki-Adi-Mundi, en route to Mygeeto, Plo Koon on Cato Neimodia, and Yoda, who was about to make planetfall on Kashyyyk".
- 455) Incorrectly states "three days after the flight of Grievous from Coruscant, 1,088 days", as "General Vos had arrived from Boz Pity with the first wave of troopers the night before; General Yoda was inbound (to Kashyyyk)".
- 456) Yoda arrives on Kashyyyk.
- 457) Obi-Wan leaves Coruscant.
- 458) Palpatine throws suspicion on Padme.
- 459) Anakin at Padme's apartment (mid-afternoon).
- 460) "The final hours of the Clone Wars".
- 461) The loyalist group meets Palpatine (twilight).
- 462) Obi-Wan arrives on Utapau.
- 463) This scene ends with Commander Cody about to make his report to the Jedi Council.
- 464) Cody makes his report > Anakin leaves Council chamber.
- 465) In this bonus level you play as one of the Magnaguards, fighting against the attacking clone troopers.
- 466) Anakin, after his meeting with the Council.
- 467) Palpatine confesses to Anakin.
- 468) Felucia, but before Grievous is killed.
- 469) Grievous fight.
- 470) Anakin tells Mace about Palpatine.
- 471) The Battle Of Kashyyyk.
- 472) Afternoon.
- 473) Evening.
- 474) "Arca Barracks, Coruscant, 0600 hours, four days after the Battle of Coruscant, 1,089 days ABG" - another internal-timeline issue as the section after this includes Order 66, which happens on the same day as the battle of Kashyyyk from the last section.
- 475) After the Battle of Kashyyyk.
- 476) The Jedi confront Palpatine.
- 477) This level features a full duel between Anakin and Mace.
- 478) Darth Vader is born.
- 479) Ki-Adi Mundi on Mygeeto preparing for the final assault.
- 480) The opening cutscene on the DS version states this mission takes place "months later", which is clearly incorrect. The PSP and DS versions of this level are quite different, but if one was to work out a timeline for them it might go something like this: DS - X2 destroys satellites in orbit, PSP - defends Republic cruiser from CIS droids as the board, PSP - returns planetside in a starfighter to attack CIS forces on the bridge, DS - general ground battle.
- 481) Utapau.
- 482) Order 66 issued.
- 483) The clones turn on Obi-Wan.
- 484) Sha Koon in library, Darth Vader kills Jocasta Nu.
- 485) This level shows Vader's assault on the Jedi Temple and starts in the Jedi Library, which ties well into the previous entry from "Purge: Seconds To Die".

- 486) PSP - ground battle continues, and ends with the droids shutting down and Order 66 being issued. The DS version has a cutscene showing Master Ferroda wounding both X1 and X2, but the PSP omits this storyline (as with most of the story beats throughout the game) and just goes straight into the player fighter Ferroda.
- 487) After Aayla's death.
- 488) Luminara killed. Quinlan and Yoda attacked.
- 489) Darth Vader fights Cin Drallig in the Jedi Temple.
- 490) After Vader has killed the younglings.
- 491) "The order is given once. Its wave-front spreads to clone commanders on Kashyyyk and Felucia, Mygeeto and Tellanroaeg and every battlefield, every military installation, every hospital and rehab center and spaceport cantina in the galaxy. Except for Coruscant. On Coruscant, Order Sixty-Six is already being executed."
- 492) After Order 66.
- 493) Quinlan comes to.
- 494) Chapter 18 states - "Galactic City, 2120 hours, 1,089 days ABG", and chapter 19 - "2220 hours, 1,089 days ABG", although as previously established, we should only be 1,083 days after the Battle of Geonosis.
- 495) Night.
- 496) "Coruscant, 2320 hours, two hours after Order 66, 1,089 days ABG"
- 497) "Dawn"
- 498) "Several hours" after last part.
- 499) "1,090 days after the Battle Of Geonosis". As established, this is wrong but it does at least clarify that this is the day after the last part.
- 500) The Jedi receive Palpatine's recall signal.
- 501) Droid deactivation signal sent > Bail collects Obi-Wan and Yoda.
- 502) Darth Vader fights his way to the Separatist leaders.
- 503) An alternative version of the above level.
- 504) Darth Vader greets Separatist leaders > Bail returns to Coruscant > "First Galactic Empire".
- 505) I imagine this quote from "The Rebellion Era" sourcebook is a continuation of the speech we see in the movie.
- 506) Anakin kills the Separatist leaders.
- 507) Obi-Wan fights his way through clone troopers in the Jedi Temple.
- 508) Yoda does the same.
- 509) After Temple attack > Obi-Wan & Yoda learn the truth.
- 510) In section 1, C-3PO ruminates that "Master Anakin had told her (Senator Amidala) just yesterday he was on his way to Mustafar", as seen in chapter 18, meaning we're still in day 4. Padme (and Obi-Wan) leave Coruscant.
- 511) The morning after part 1.
- 512) "Later that day".
- 513) The aftermath of Order 66 on Kashyyyk.
- 514) Padme lands on Mustafar. In section 6 Palpatine wishes Yoda a "Happy Empire Day" so both the Senate chamber fight and the Mustafar fight are still in day 4, despite in clearly being sunset in the movie when Padme departs Coruscant.
- 515) "Later that day".
- 516) "Dawn".
- 517) Polis Massa > Tantive IV.
- 518) The UK magazine, aimed at kids, relaunched every couple of years, hence the numbering. Certain runs contained a new comic short story in each issue. Volume 6 focused solely on stories based on "The Clone Wars" series (so you'll find them on the TCW timeline, while Volume 7 bounced around the timeline.
- 519) Darth Vader gets his armour.
- 520) Obi-Wan and Luke on Nar Shadda.
- 521) Obi-Wan and Luke enroute to Outer Rim. The specifics are vague enough that this could still be the same shuttle they're on at the end of Lone Wolf.

- 522) Obi-Wan arrives on Tatooine.
- 523) Obi-Wan asking for directions to the Lars homestead.
- 524) Padme's funeral > twins given away.
- 525) This introduction to an RPG adventure in a obscure magazine doesn't exactly gel with later continuity (Palpatine is called "President") and may not even be licensed.
- 526) This series continues its incorrect dating. Here it is "1,095 days after the Battle Of Geonosis", but using it's own date of "1,088 days after ABG" as being the day Order 66 happened allowed me to extrapolate the number of days since that event.
- 527) "1,096 days after the Battle Of Geonosis".
- 528) "1,097 days after the Battle Of Geonosis".
- 529) This entry pertains to Sidious's writings within the book.
- 530) Although both PSP & DS versions follow more or less the same path in this level, the DS tells much more of the actual story, as well as dating it "months" after Order 66.
- 531) The timeline starts getting a bit iffy here. Dark Times #11 states it is 3 months since "Revenge Of The Sith", followed by a 3 week timejump on page 3. The next arc, Blue Harvest, states it is 3 weeks since the events of #12, and 4 months since "Revenge Of The Sith" - which just about fits. But then #18 states it is nearly 3 weeks since #12 (which would put it before #13), and then we also find out that this issue is also 2 weeks since Dass Jennir left Telrath, which is where we found him at the end of #17.
- 532) "Dark Times" didn't use sequential numbering on the covers, instead it reset to issue #1 with the start of each new arc. The sequential issue numbers were only listed on the credits page, but in addition to this the credits page also shows us that the series is subtitled as "Republic" and continues to use the original numbering. This makes Star Wars (1999)/Republic/Dark Times the longest running comic in Star Wars history at 115 issues.
- 533) This short story about an exiled Thrawn first coming to the attention of the Empire was originally published in 1995 but a revised version, to bring it more in line with the prequels, was released in the paperback of "Outbound Flight" in 2007.
- 534) Hock has been on the farm for "many months".
- 535) Hock in back in the military.
- 536) There are no timeline cues in this short story, so I've placed it at a point in time that A'Sharad Hett is leading a tribe of sandpeople to make a tenuous link.
- 537) This booklet of Cradossk's autobiography was only included with the deluxe edition, and the copyright page says 17:7 which I've assumed refers to the GrS calendar.
- 538) This is the first wholly original chapter of the book, up to now it as just adapted movie scenes.
- 539) This is a retelling of the above entry.
- 540) No timeline cues in this entry but I've assumed it's not long after the rise of the Empire.
- 541) I'm sure when the next few shorts were written for the "Imperial Sourcebook" they were meant to take place much closer to A New Hope, but a WEG adventure module, "The Hunt Within: Valance's Tale" retconned this particular campaign to 17 BBY. This retcon was further reinforced by the cut story from "Essential Guide To Warfare".
- 542) Bevel Lemelisk shows Palpatine his proposed design for the Death Star. Obviously this doesn't fit well with the later reveal that it was designed by the Geonosians.
- 543) Very little of this story cleanly fits with Boba's eventual history, as revealed in Attack Of The Clones, unless you do some serious mental gymnastics. This story also doesn't have chapters, but the time jumps are clear enough when read, so I've measured the parts by those time jumps instead of paragraphs.
- 544) In 1986 there was a short run of Droids and Ewok comics, based on their respective cartoons published by Star Comics.
- 545) Issue #4 features a rare example of a form of time travel in Star Wars. The droids find themselves going through a wormhole and finding themselves meeting the Ewoks on Endor years later. I've added the Ewok story as the next entry to complete the story.

- 546) This story is clearly intended to happen in a much more condensed period of time between “A New Hope” and “Return Of The Jedi”, however the appearance of an IG-88 droid bounty hunter in the Droids animated show necessitates the placement of the first 5 chapters here.
- 547) Mycomyc was a Spanish comic that contained short comic strips featuring many TV cartoon characters, including comic strips based on Droids and Ewoks. Largely forgotten over time, they resurfaced in 2013 and were translated by Abel Pena and published on starwars.com. Although the issues seem to feature the necessary copyright information, Lucasfilm has no history of an official license being issued. That being said, the Droids comics in particular to a great job of tying into their respective arcs from the TV show.
- 548) “Death Star Designer” was an online browser based game released as part of the promotional campaign for the “Lethal Alliance” video game. While the website is no longer available, it hosted this in-universe transmission on its home page:
 “Welcome to the Maw Installation, professor. It’s a relief to have a weapons engineer of your distinction on staff.
 The chief engineer, Bevel Lemelisk, had hoped to be on hand to greet you, but he suffered an unfortunate near-fatal choking. He’s lucky to be alive, really. I’ve heard the Emperor is even less forgiving than... Be that as it may, with Lemelisk in long-term disability in a bacta tank, you are now the ranking engineer assigned to this installation. As such the responsibility for the completion of the Empire’s ultimate weapon has fallen on you.
 The project is officially known as the Expeditionary Battle Planetoid Development Initiative, but those in the Ministry of Propaganda have taken to calling it the “Death Star”. Catchy, wouldn’t you say? Whatever you want to call it, I will be arriving soon for a full design review, so you will need to redouble your efforts. Security is tight here at the Maw, especially now that notorious Rebel spy Rianna Saren has been spotted in system. We’ll need you to enter your Imperial personnel records into our databank, if you’ve not already done so.”
 I’ve placed it here before “Grand Moff Tarkin’s Data Journal #493” as the journal entry specifically places the Death Star construction at that time as taking place above a planet, presumably Despayre, so we can assume it has left The Maw by that point. The mention of Rianna as a Rebel Spy is tricky though.
- 549) Dengar is injured during a swoop race against Han.
- 550) Bevel Lemelisk gives Tarkin a tour of the Death Star, being constructed at Despayre.
- 551) This was an impossible one to accurately place since no dates are given and this is the only mention anywhere of Queen Mairayni’s reign, but this is as good enough place as any for it to be well into the narrators retirement.
- 552) Assuming the younglings were 5 years old in 19 BBY and 15 here.
- 553) Both Soontir Fel and Han Solo were at the Imperial Academy at the same time.
- 554) Jan Dodonna defects from the Empire.
- 555) The vignettes in the sourcebook are lacking in any real detail timeline-wise and for the most part have been spread between 1ABY-2ABY (the ‘quieter’ years of the Galactic Civil War), however this one does appear to contain a variation on the GrS dating system with 29:3:3:91 (although the “91” doesn’t make any sense in that context) so I’m still choosing to take the “29” as equalling 7 BBY.
- 556) This story of Luke and Windy getting lost in the desert overnight, with Lukes pet dewback Huey, was first told in “Luke Skywalker’s Walkabout”, a comic short story published in “Dark Horse Presents Annual 1999”, and is greatly expanded here.
- 557) The same event as above but from Obi-Wan’s POV
- 558) The standard I’ve been using with “parts” doesn’t work for Kardue’sai’Malloc’s story due to lots of one-line internal monologuing, but when you read it it’s pretty obvious where the timejumps are, but I’ve added footnotes for extra clarity.
- 559) the personal timeline of Tem Eliss had puzzled me for years until I realised the vignette in Gamer #9 placed itself after the Empire/New Republic peace treaty, and gave a span of 25 years since his escape into exile. For this particular vignette I’m assuming that he was still working at the university at the time.
- 560) Assuming Tem Eliss is still on campus.
- 561) The Empire is first alerted to the publication of Professor Eliss’s Guide.
- 562) 37 hours after Tem Eliss’s escape.

- 563) This is the in-universe document "The Guide To Intelligent Life" that caused Professor Eliss to need to flee the Empire's attention.
- 564) 3 weeks after the first communication. The "Guide To..." has now been leaked onto the holonet.
- 565) This short story was the first time Greedo's history and younger years had been explored. Unfortunately this was muddled in later years due to his appearance as a child in "The Phantom Menace" and later as a adult bounty hunter in an episode of "The Clone Wars".
- 566) There is no specific dating for this in-universe version of the book that was compiled by Boba Fett.
- 567) Assuming this is during Professor Eliss's exile.
- 568) The smugglers the Imperials are fighting on this page was later retconned to be taking part in the Battle of Nar Shaddaa from The Hutt Gambit.
- 569) Most timelines have all of the Dark Horse "Droids" comics in 5 BBY, but I think with so many stories it makes more sense to have them happen over a longer period of time.
- 570) There is no indication of how old Drake Paulsen is in this story, but I'm assuming it's before he leaves Socorro.
- 571) Tarkin enslaves and armies worth of Wookiees to use as labor at the Death Star construction site. A similar story, "Pax Empirica", takes place in 19 BBY but since this flashback mentions that Wookiees were used to construct the Maw Installation it serves as a handy retcon.
- 572) This adventure gamebook as a lot of original fiction in it, giving a lot more background to the life of Drake Paulsen, as well as an original adventure.
- 573) Placing this story here, before Out Of The Cradle, as Karl Ancher owns the same bar in both stories.
- 574) Let's assume Trep is telling this story at the Sabaac table we left him on in the last entry.
- 575) Just another reminder of the unlikely places that officially licensed fiction can turn up.
- 576) This has to be after "The Hutt Gambit" due to Han mentioning Salla Zend.
- 577) This story further solidifies its timeline placement by having Winter declare she was 13 years old 3 years ago, making her 16 here. Chapter 2 of "Rebel Dawn" sees Winter stating she just turn 17. However, the comic seems to imply that Leia and Winter are the same age, while "Rebel Dawn" specifies that there is a year and a few months between them.
- 578) "The Force Unleashed" was a multimedia event featuring a video game, novel, comic and more. I'm covering the primary storyline using the novel rather than the video game for ease.
- 579) This bizarre Star Wars/Soul Calibur 4 crossover came about due publicize the inclusion of Yoda and Darth Vader in the Soul Calibur roster. Obviously it was intended apocryphal but if it were to have "happened" this is a good spot for it.
- 580) This one page advert for the "Millenium Falcon Owners Workshop Manual not only tells an original story but places the aforementioned book as an in-universe resource.
- 581) The 5 month gap between chapters 4 and 5 of "Rebel Dawn" is the perfect spot to squeeze in lots of unrelated Han and Chewie smuggling stories.
- 582) Ryder was originally contracted for 4 books in this series, but the plug was pulled after 2 due to low sales, despite 3 already being written and 4 outlined. Both have since been published on the internet if you know where to look.
- 583) As with the previous example from the same sourcebook, there is another possible variant on the GrS dating convention here, with 33:2:4:21 used.
- 584) This prologue was originally published on the official site as a webcomic, titled "Mara Jade #0", in 1998.
- 585) Biggs is still on Tatooine.
- 586) One the hardest timeline conundrums I've ever had is figuring out exactly how much time is spent as a cadet in the Imperial Academy, for both Han Solo and Biggs Darklighter, before joining the ranks. In these pages, Biggs has been approved to join the academy, in chapter 5 of "A New Hope: The Life Of Luke Skywalker" he is having a leaving party but that is specifically in Lukes 17th year on Tatooine. This gives him less than a year between joining, graduating and his ultimate mutiny before joining the Rebel Alliance.
- 587) This chapter adapts a rare flashback story from "Star Wars (1977) #17: Crucible".
- 588) Biggs leaves for the Academy.

- 589) "Shadow Games" makes it clear that Leebo has been on the crew for some time, hence placing this story further back in the timeline.
- 590) There is no real way to accurately date this flashback, however it is known that both Kir Kanos and Carnor Jax served in the Royal Guard for "years" before the Battle Of Yavin.
- 591) This DS exclusive level dates itself as 15 years after the last level "Dantooine" which in itself dated itself "months" after Order 66. 15 years would place it in 4 BBY, far too early for Rahm Kota to be working with the Rebel Alliance, or for there to be any information on the existence of the Death Star. Considering the upcoming Death Star prison break level can tie neatly into the opening of the "Death Star" novel, and accompanying "Battlefront (2005)" level, I've chosen to place it about a month earlier, and Boba Fett being sent after Rahm Kota after the events of "The Force Unleashed" also work well here.
- 592) This level was exclusive to the PSP version of the game.
- 593) "The Essential Readers Companion" places this story in 3 BBY, but since it mentions the Rebel Alliance (which hadn't formed by 3 BBY) I've moved it forward a couple of years.
- 594) Rahm Kota states that this is X2's first mission under his command, which is only true in the context of the PSP version, to which this level is exclusive. I'm also assuming that the prison break depicted in this level is the same one as in "Battlefront (2005)" and mentioned in the opening chapter of "Death Star".
- 595) The Death Star is in orbit above Despayre for the majority of this book.
- 596) Not much to date this vignette that serves as the introduction to this AJ article, but it does mention a Rebel named Antilles, which I have taken to be Raymus Antilles who captains the Tantive IV at the start of "A New Hope", and one can assume he has been working for the Rebellion at least as long as his employer, Bail Organa. The narrative actually continues throughout what is otherwise a stats and history filled article.
- 597) Content was officially commissioned and written for volumes 16 and 17 of Adventure Journal, and while those books were never published, a lot of the material due to be included has since found its way online.
- 598) This is an interesting one. "The Farlander Papers" was originally released as a physical novella with the Collectors Edition of "X-Wing" video game. That story told the beginning of Kayan Farlander's journey with the Rebel Alliance. The story was vastly expanded, with a lot of new content and the switch to a first person POV, in "X-Wing: The Official Strategy Guide". The original novella had 5 chapters, whilst the guide doesn't have a strict naming convention for sections, so I have split it into parts and will detail the breakdown on those parts in the footnotes. Part one consists of the opening chapter of the Guide, "The Sentence".
- 599) Part 2 consists of "The Aftermath" (Strategy Guide), "Chapter 1-2" (Farlander Papers), "The Speech" & "Early Training" (Strategy Guide), "Chapter 3" (Farlander Papers), "Pilot Proving Ground" & "Historical Combat Training" (Strategy Guide).
- 600) Part 3 is just the section titles "Meeting Halley Kadorto" from the Strategy Guide. One of the biggest problems I had with spreading Farlander's story out over approx. 18 months means that in this section we find him flying historic sim missions, one of which is the rescue of Ackbar from Tarkin which doesn't happen until months from now.
- 601) Part 4 consists of "My First Meeting" (Strategy Guide" and "Chapter 4 & Epilogue" (Farlander Papers).
- 602) The Battle of Turkhana is also shown in the opening cutscene to the "X-Wing" video game.
- 603) Keyan Farlander's story continues in the "X-Wing: The Official Strategy Guide" with before and after sections for each mission.
- 604) Han and Chewie return to Kashyyyk after their adventures in the Corporate Sector. Chewie finds out he's a father. Han mentions returning to Nar Shaddaa, which is where we find both him and Chewie in the next chapter of this book, but we need to assume that Chewie stayed behind with his family for a while to allow space for Shadow Games to happen.
- 605) Couple of issue with this story - Garm basically steals the Death Star plans despite being on the station itself in "The Force Unleashed" in 2 BBY. I've placed it here, before "The Force Unleashed II" because that story has Leia referring to the Death Star by its name, meaning its existence was known far earlier than thought.
- 606) Putting this here in month 7 of 1 BBY means Biggs was 6 months training at the Academy, which seems fair, but I can also imagine Tarkin being free to hint at the Death Star's existence.
- 607) Reading the comic alone it would appear the "several weeks" noted by Biggs means weeks since he reunited with Luke on Tatooine, but it's actually Biggs reminiscing on the events depicted in this section.

- 608) Lando owns the Lady Luck in this story but shouldn't until after "Return Of The Jedi".
- 609) We can presume this escape attempt is the reason the main story opens with Starkiller in isolation.
- 610) These cutscenes were unlocked as part of the non-canonical 'dark side' ending to the TFU II game, in which Vader's secret dark-side Starkiller clone saves the day (from a certain POV), however since the storyline finishes on a cliffhanger (more on that later), having this second secret apprentice storyline weaving it's way throughout the storyline can help wrap things up).
- 611) This is the linear order for the opening chapters of the book.
- 612) The graphic novel follows Boba Fett's involvement in the game with a mostly independent story.
- 613) This story ends on a cliffhanger, with Vader in Rebel Alliance custody on his way to the Rebel base on Dantooine, that has never been resolved.....unless, like me, you like to imagine that Dark Starkiller came to his rescue and killed Starkiller, Juno, and Rahm Kota before perishing himself, which is why we never see any of these characters again in any other stories.
- 614) Leia becomes a Senator.
- 615) The main Rebel base is now on Yavin 4, with the cliffhanger of "The Force Unleashed II" unresolved one could presume that something happened that necessitated the move from Dantooine to Yavin.
- 616) The events of this story, which was originally classed as infinites, could actually be taken as a direct response to the events of "The Force Unleashed II", as Vader finds himself a new secret apprentice, Tao.
- 617) The interior dating says "weeks" before "A New Hope" and the end of the story sees Vader heading to the Death Star which leads straight into the next entry.
- 618) Vader enroute to the Death Star.
- 619) Roons Sewell returns to Yavin after a mission.
- 620) Biggs and Derek "Hobbie" Klivian, serving on the Rand Ecliptic, on the mission that ends with the massacre of the private vessel Lark.
- 621) Still the same day as the last part (night).
- 622) Vader arrives on the Death Star.
- 623) Vader is on the Death Star.
- 624) Mutiny on the Rand Ecliptic.
- 625) Roons Sewell's final mission.
- 626) Jan Dodonna leads memorial service for Roons Sewell.
- 627) Biggs returns to the Rand Ecliptic following her desertion to find Hobbie has taken control on behalf of the Rebel Alliance.
- 628) Soontir Fel reassigned to the 181st fighter squadron following the loss of the Rand Ecliptic.
- 629) As part of the promotional campaign for Death Troopers, these letters were published on various websites and showed the virus taking control of the Purge's population.
- 630) Another Death Troopers tie in as the tweets of TK-329 start as an 'Ask Me Anything' but then show the trooper decline into madness.
- 631) Tarkin invites Admiral Daala to visit the Death Star.
- 632) Leia on a mission for the Rebellion.
- 633) Han and Chewie return to Nar Shaddaa.
- 634) Greedo meets Han and Chewie on Nar Shaddaa.
- 635) Assuming this story with Han, Lando, and the Tonnika Sisters takes place on Nar Shaddaa.
- 636) Isolder's age doesn't really jive with "Courtship Of Princess Leia" since he'd only be 16 here, based on previously established ages, but the story specifically places it shortly before the Battle Of Yavin.
- 637) Daala arrives on the Death Star. Gunners practice the primary ignition sequence.
- 638) Vader leads a strike against a Rebel facility on Nar Shaddaa.
- 639) Biggs and Hobbie on Yavin 4.
- 640) Slotting this story into the hand 5 day gap between chapters 11-12 of "Rebel Dawn".
- 641) I'm probably being optimistic by trying to fit these levels in 0 BBY, but I wanted to fit this series of missions that revolve around the theft of prototype X-Wings into the similar mission in "Darklighter" on the working assumption that the different missions happened concurrently.
- 642) X-Wing heist briefing.

- 643) X-Wing heist mission.
- 644) Biggs visits Hobbie in the infirmary. Red Squadron get briefed on their next mission. This particular mission, in which Red Squadron steal a bunch of R2 units from Commenor to help pilot the X-Wings they've just stolen, was first told in the pages of "Rogue Squadron #½" (originally published in Wizard Magazine) which in itself was inspired by a level from the "X-Wing" video game.
- 645) The original story's last page has Red Squadron returning to Yavin just as the Rebel Alliance is preparing its assault on the Death Star and sees Biggs being reunited with Luke. "Empire: Darklighter" forces us to ignore that last page.
- 646) Biggs recounts the previous mission to Hobbie.
- 647) I really wanted to tie this mission into the similar plot point from "Empire: Darklighter" but they happen in the reverse order in the game compared to the comic (not that there's any concrete evidence that they're even the same missions). Between this video game, "Empire At War" and "Darklighter", that's 3 separate missions to steal X-Wings.
- 648) Kir Kanos and Carnor Jax earn their place in the Emperor's Royal Guard.
- 649) High Inquisitor Jerec commands the Star Destroyer Vengeance, with Captain Thrawn as his second in command. Vengeance was last seen in Vader's attack on Nar Shaddaa. Here we see it launch an attack on the Rebel forces of Sullust, before Jerec kills one of their leaders Morgan Katarn, Kyle's father. Meanwhile, we get introduced to Kyle Katarn, who is currently a stormtrooper.
- 650) I've placed this here due to Sullust being a key plot point and tying it in to the previous entry.
- 651) An early encroachment into Imperial space by the Ssi-ruuk.
- 652) The Empire covers up the above attack and blame it on "Rebel terrorists."
- 653) Ylesia raid. Bria leaves Han.
- 654) Jabba sends Han to Kessel to pick up a shipment of spice.
- 655) The span of this game is 1 BBY – 4 ABY, but with very little concise information to accurately date them, so I have simply spread them out based on my best judgement.
- 656) There is a handy 12 hour stopover on Kessel noted in chapter 15 part 3 of "Rebel Dawn", which makes this the obvious, if not clumsy, place to fit the events of this mission.
- 657) Kardue'sai'Malloc getting drunk in the Mos Eisley cantina.
- 658) Han has to drop the spice.
- 659) The original 1977 Marvel comic run was reprinted in the UK on a weekly basis, albeit with some stories split over several weeks. This means that sometimes original stories were commissioned exclusively for the UK comic. When they'd caught up with the US releases. This particular story is an early version of the failed Kessel run that led to Jabba placing a bounty on Han. It was overridden by Rebel Dawn since the Marvel comics weren't viewed as being canon at that point in real world publishing.
- 660) Maybe Han was working through his frustration at Bria's betrayal, and then having to drop the spice, by deciding to stage a prison break on Kashyyyk?
- 661) Kardue'sai'Malloc goes to see Jabba. Figrin Da'n and the Modal Nodes playing for Jabba.
- 662) I like to think the spice shipment mentioned in the story is the same one dropped by Han and Chewie.
- 663) Let's assume the Imperials are after the Falcon as a follow up to their previous encounter when Han dropped the spice.
- 664) Kyle Katarn wakes up in hospital.
- 665) This old West End Games in-universe document ties in well with the last arc from the "X-Wing" video game.
- 666) Kyle Katarn graduates.
- 667) This mission mentions that Captain Antilles has been reassigned to the Tantive IV, for a secret mission with Leia (see next entry).
- 668) Leia leaving shortly for Ralltiir.
- 669) Kyle Katarn meets Jan Ors aboard the Star Of The Empire (Lando is also aboard, but only to provide a cameo appearance) and she tells him the truth about his father's death.
- 670) The radio drama productions of the original trilogy movies added many extra scenes to the story. I am only including those scenes unique to these adaptations.
- 671) Leia on Ralltiir.

- 672) Jan brings Kyle to join the Rebellion. Mon Mothma tells him about the Death Star.
- 673) I've placed the introductory short story from this sourcebook here before the first newsmag broadcast from Cynabar's Infonet.
- 674) Leia on Kattada.
- 675) Approaching Alderaan.
- 676) Taking advantage of the 6 day gap between Kyle Katarn's induction to the Rebel Alliance in "Dark Forces: Soldier For The Empire" chapters 5 and 6 to place this level here. Maybe Mon Mothma sent him on this mission to brief Rianna Saren?
- 677) Chewbacca's 200th birthday.
- 678) Jabba gives Han 10 days to pay back the cost of the spice.
- 679) One week before the start of "A New Hope".
- 680) This entry refers to the in-universe publication of this handbook.
- 681) As well as this in universe introduction discussing the promotion of Brenn Tantor, video game's instruction manual also has lots of in-universe asides scattered throughout to give the book the feel of an official Imperial training document for officers. An example is as follows "WARNING! Regulation X7T-PLX prohibits using the BHCI to control Imperial military personnel and munitions while under the influence of any intoxicant detrimental to focused and loyal thought. Failure to remain on task will result in disciplinary measures as described in Sub-Section 8.2.1355 of Volume 6 of The Imperial Military Guide To Correct Thought!"
- 682) Prefect Talmont is assigned to Tatooine.
- 683) The main character of this game, Rookie One, is a Rebel pilot stationed on a base on Tatooine.
- 684) This choose your own adventure book focuses on a young man called Havet Storm who not only finds out he has a Jedi heritage but also ends up participating in Operation Skyhook on Toprawa.
- 685) My recommended reading order (to experience as much of the story and as many of the options as possible) for this first part is: 1-31-80-(503)-46-141-216-218-94-(516)-101-17-34-97-2-39-185-(569)-307-142-173-(565)-204-(573)-(574)-(575)-300-346-(557)-182-(616)-211-72-150-161-224-(515)-350-(525)-11-169-190-(521)-221-417-309-(517)-(530)-227-199-225-52-86-50-139
- 686) My recommended reading order (to experience as much of the story and as many of the options as possible) for this second part is: 99-530-546-182-166-9-35-(578)-91-(563)-203-(580)-77-105-140-106-12
- 687) Luke threading the Needle.
- 688) The NPR radio dramas added many new scenes to the movie script, and even when adapting movie scenes there is a lot of new dialogue written specifically for it.
- 689) After threading the Needle.
- 690) Labria at Wuher's cantina.
- 691) Labria visits Lady Valerian to convince her to hire Figrin D'an for her wedding.
- 692) Figrin D'an is approached to play Lady Valerian's wedding.
- 693) Each mission's walkthrough in the game guide is prefaced by Kyle's thoughts written from an in universe perspective. I've only included these rather than have an 'in-universe document' and 'video game level' entry for each level.
- 694) This chapter covers the first level of the game in which Kyle is sent to steal the Death Star plans. Luckily "Dark Forces: Soldier For The Empire" specifies that his mission is for the battle stations 'memory matrix', so there is no clash with Operation Skyhook since that mission's transmission is of the 'technical specifications' as per the movie.
- 695) There is very little context with which to accurately place this 'battle', however I like the idea of there being a coordinated effort to launch multiple Rebel attacks around the time of Operation Skyhook.
- 696) Operation Skyhook.
- 697) My recommended reading order (to experience as much of the story and as many of the options as possible) for this third part is: 121-(572)-(590)-230-248-265-269-312-(592)-274-(553)-(595)-313-(603)-334-(554)-315-348-381-370-335-358-356-368-342-367-357-393--374-375-376-400-(608)-380-405-362-(606)-378-396-382-364-(608)-388-389

- 698) Bria Tharen's Red Hand Squadron help keep the comms tower locked down while the Death Star plans get transmitted.
- 699) The Tantive IV receives the transmission from Toprawa.
- 700) Keyan Farlander's squadron escorts the Tantive IV as the plans are transmitted,, and then protect it as it jumps into hyperspace. The game itself states this is only a couple of days after the Intrepid mission, which some other sources (*cough* Wookieepedia) place in 1 BBY.
- 701) After transmission.
- 702) Biggs arrives back on Tatooine.
- 703) The 501st are searching for the stolen plans.
- 704) Vader receives a tipoff that the plans have been passed to a courier on Kalakar Six, but it's a trap but rogue dark siders who pit Vader against a resurrected Darth Maul.
- 705) Vader, back aboard the Devastator, knows Leia has the plans and is headed to Tatooine.
- 706) Rianna Saren finds herself imprisoned Despayre, and sees the Death Star.
- 707) The 'sisters' head for Tatooine.
- 708) The only thing stopping this early "Star Wars Tales" fitting perfectly is the fact that the Modal Nodes appear to be playing at Wuher's Cantina before Labria later tricks them into doing so (see "Empire Blues: The Devaronian's Tale").
- 709) Han and Chewie arrive on Tatooine (night).
- 710) "Ralltiir Uprising Quelled".
- 711) The Rebels capture some of the team responsible for designing the Death Star.
- 712) This story, of Jar Jar's son, Abso Bar Binks, trying to buy Leia some time in a Tantive IV-lookalike ship, is clearly not intended to be taking with continuity in mind. But there's also no reason why it couldn't have happened.
- 713) The Rebels learn that the Death Star is at Despayre.
- 714) Greedo accepts the Solo bounty job from Jabba.
- 715) This early Rebel attack on the Death Star works well in the context of the Rebels learning the location of the Death Star in the previous "X-Wing" missions.
- 716) This flashback sees Tarkin about to land on the Death Star for an inspection before he ship is attacked by Rebels, who are there to rescue his personal slave, Ackbar. He later learns about Operation Skyhook on Toprawa. While this entry fits well with early Legends material like the "Death Star Technical Companion", and the Rebel attack could easily be connected to the previous entry, in "Death Star" Tarkin is already aboard the Death Star. As for Ackbar, him being Tarkin's slave is a long established fact and yet he appears with the Rebels in multiple sources before this point.
- 717) Tantive IV about to leave hyperspace.
- 718) I'm making a judgement call here that the Star Destroyer than reverts from hyperspace above Tatooine in this story is the Devastator.
- 719) Luke, working on vaporators, sees battle in orbit.
- 720) Shada sees battle in orbit.
- 721) Luke reunited with Biggs, "just two ships sitting there".
- 722) Tantive IV tractored into the Devastator's hold.
- 723) Droids on Tantive IV, just before boarding.
- 724) Stormtroopers board Tantive IV.
- 725) Leia places message in R2-D2's memory bank.
- 726) Vader onboard Tantive IV.
- 727) "Tear this ship apart, I want her alive".
- 728) Droids enter escape pod.
- 729) Leia recording message > escape pod launch.
- 730) Leia stunned > droids looking out of escape pod.
- 731) The Tantive IV dropped out of hyperspace "half hour ago".
- 732) "Only you could be so bold".
- 733) Death Star moving a sublight speed (presumably to get good firing distance from Despayre).

- 734) Droids split up.
- 735) C-3PO finds Sandcrawler.
- 736) Rookiee One leads an attack on one of the Star Destroyers in orbit above Tatooine.
- 737) Star Destroyers in orbit above Tatooine.
- 738) The Imperials attack Anchorhead Base.
- 739) Palpatine tells Vader he has dissolved the Imperial Senate and orders him to the Death Star.
- 740) Ars Dangor informs the Grand Moffs that the Emperor has dissolved the Senate.
- 741) Biggs tells Luke about his intention to join the Rebel Alliance.
- 742) This story mentions a "worn R4 unit" aboard a Sandcrawler. Let's assume it's R4-D4.
- 743) Droids in Sandcrawler.
- 744) Tarkin orders the Death Star to fire on Despayre.
- 745) The Death Star fires on Despayre at one-third power.
- 746) Luke, back on the farm after Tosche Station, sends up a flare to attract Jawa traders.
- 747) Ars Dangor informs the citizens of the Galactic Empire that the Emperor has suspended the Senate.
- 748) Specifically dated in the comic as "4 days before the Battle Of Yavin".
- 749) This is an example of video game mechanics playing fast and loose with chronological storytelling, as the next few levels essentially replay the Battle of Hoth from "The Empire Strikes Back", but in the middle of events from "A New Hope". The clunky explanation is that the Rebels had an earlier base on Hoth that Vader and the Devastator had detoured to on the way to the Death Star (see footnote 725). It helps that chapter 10 of the game ends with Vader commanding the Devastator so set course for the Death Star, which was their original destination.
- 750) Dawn. Muftak has an altercation with Lieutenant Alima. This has to be day 2 as Muftak tells Kabe they will visit the cantina "tomorrow" (even though Muftak does visit the cantina himself in Momaw Nadon's tale).
- 751) Labria calls Jabba (morning of Lady Valerian's wedding).
- 752) Despayre destroyed. Devastator approaches the Death Star.
- 753) Having escaped Despayre and ending up on the Death Star, Rianna watches the planet get destroyed. She then reports back to Leia about its planet-killing capabilities before being sent to Danuta. The problem with this is that Leia is currently being held by Vader onboard the Devastator.
- 754) Leia in a cell aboard the Devastator.
- 755) "15 minutes" from arriving at the Death Star.
- 756) Arrive at the Death Star.
- 757) Jawa traders at the homestead.
- 758) Luke sees Leia's message.
- 759) Lars dinner.
- 760) Afternoon.
- 761) "That little droid's going to get me in a lot of trouble".
- 762) Evening.
- 763) Leia in her cell.
- 764) Before the wedding.
- 765) Greedo and Han.
- 766) Stormtroopers raid Valarian's wedding. Wuher escapes with the Modal Nodes.
- 767) Dawn. Luke sneaking out to look for R2-D2.
- 768) After sunrise.
- 769) "Luke, Lu-uke".
- 770) Empire searching for droids.
- 771) Stormtroopers find escape pod.
- 772) The Modal Nodes set up their gear at the Cantina (morning).
- 773) Luke finds R2-D2. Tusken attack.
- 774) Obi-Wan rescues Luke.
- 775) Obi-Wan's house.
- 776) Early afternoon.

- 777) Death Star Conference.
- 778) Leia attempts to break out.
- 779) "Now, your Highness, we will discuss the location of your hidden Rebel base".
- 780) Stormtroopers find Sandcrawler.
- 781) Stormtroopers attack Sandcrawler.
- 782) Obi-Wan and Luke at Sandcrawler.
- 783) After torture scene.
- 784) Stormtroopers kill Owen and Beru.
- 785) Het Nkik meets Obi-Wan and droids at Sandcrawler.
- 786) Luke finds the bodies of Owen and Beru.
- 787) "Set a course for the Alderaan system".
- 788) Despayre destroyed and the Death Star has left the system.
- 789) "I want to learn to be a Jedi".
- 790) "Imperial Senate Suspended".
- 791) Obi-Wan and Luke on their way to Mos Eisley.
- 792) "A wretched hive of scum and villainy".
- 793) "Move along, move along".
- 794) Luke and Obi-Wan enter the cantina.
- 795) The book mis-labels this scene as happening at "night".
- 796) Possibly the first ever Star Wars short story.
- 797) BoShek introduces Obi-Wan to Chewie.
- 798) "No blasters! No blasters!".
- 799) Han and Chewie looking for work in the cantina.
- 800) This long section covers from "A wretched hive of scum and villainy" to Obi-Wan meeting Chewie.
- 801) Chewie about introduce Luke and Obi-Wan to Han.
- 802) Droids waiting outside.
- 803) Meeting Han.
- 804) "You'll have to sell your speeder".
- 805) Greedo enters cantina.
- 806) Han shoots Greedo.
- 807) Reegesks sells Het Nkik a depowered blaster.
- 808) Luke sells speeder.
- 809) After speeder is sold.
- 810) This scene with Han and Jabba was filmed for "A New Hope" with Jabba being a human. It was deleted from the final film and reinserted, with new CGI for Jabba, in the 1997 release of the "Special Editions"
- 811) This is the same scene as above but with a new character called Heater speaking the lines said by Jabba in the original.
- 812) Het Nkik fires at stormtroopers.
- 813) The stormtroopers kill Het Nkik.
- 814) BoShek sees the above altercation.
- 815) Stormtroopers report to Vader that they're still looking for the droids.
- 816) Docking Bay 94.
- 817) This level ends after the Falcon has taken off.
- 818) Afternoon > evening.
- 819) Falcon in hyperspace.
- 820) I've placed this section, in which 4-LOM gains sentience, after "From A Certain Point Of View" due to the appearance of the luxury starliner, Kuari Princess, in both.
- 821) "Solo has left Tatooine".
- 822) Nighttime.
- 823) "They're on Dantooine".
- 824) This level leads straight into the destruction of Alderaan.

- 825) Alderaan destroyed.
- 826) "Our scout ships have reached Dantooine. They found the remains of a Rebel base, but they estimate that it has been deserted for some time".
- 827) Arrival at Tatooine > tractor beam.
- 828) Scanner crew.
- 829) Aboard the Death Star.
- 830) "The following afternoon".
- 831) Rescuing Leia.
- 832) Trash compactor.
- 833) Han chases stormtroopers.
- 834) Bridge swing.
- 835) Vader kills Obi-Wan.
- 836) The Falcon escapes.
- 837) "Are they away?"
- 838) The Falcon in hyperspace.
- 839) Vader reports to the Emperor that the Falcon is being tracked.
- 840) Celia is told her brother was killed by Rebels on Ralltiir which ties in nicely with "Empire #13: What Sin Loyalty?" on Day 1. "15 hours" after part 2 (based on the established journey time to the Maelstrom Nebula).
- 841) "Two nights later".
- 842) About to arrive at Yavin.
- 843) The Falcon arrives in system.
- 844) Disembarking the Falcon.
- 845) R2-D2 taken to be analysed.
- 846) "The morning before the Battle of Yavin".
- 847) Han has been paid
- 848) "10 hours" after part 4.
- 849) Death Star enters the Yavin system.
- 850) "We are preparing to orbit the planet".
- 851) Biggs in the jungle looking for a cure for Hobbie's illness.
- 852) Dodonna spots a weakness while analysing the Death Star plans. Unfortunately this story states that the mission briefing takes place the day after the Falcon arrives at the base.
- 853) Dodonna explains his theory.
- 854) Initial trooper assault on Yavin to confirm the presence of the base.
- 855) The opening sections of both PSP and DS versions show an Imperial ground attack before the main attack run on the DS, which also ties in the previous entry.
- 856) The opening section of the summary in the strategy guide shows Keyan Farlander meeting Luke.
- 857) Biggs called to briefing.
- 858) Mission briefing.
- 859) "Rebel base in range in 30 minutes".
- 860) This level, and the following "X-wing" level show that there was a far more "all-out" offensive than just what we see on-screen.
- 861) As above, this level shows a preliminary attack run, not the main assault we see in the movie.
- 862) Luke and Biggs reunited.
- 863) The audio drama has this scene before the mission briefing, a change from both the novel and the movie.
- 864) Han recording a message for Luke and Leia in case they survive.
- 865) Starfighters taking off.
- 866) This chapter covers the whole battle, and as such I saw little point in splitting it up.
- 867) "Estimated time to firing range, 15 minutes".
- 868) "Look at the size of that thing".
- 869) While the gameplay itself is essentially you playing through movie events, the opening cutscenes are the parts that add new narrative elements.

- 870) "I'm a little cooked but I'm ok".
- 871) "We count 30 Rebel ships".
- 872) I have left out the final level of this game as there is no new narrative element at all, it's just a straight retelling of the final trench run, albeit with different characters from the game speaking the same lines we see in the movie.
- 873) Vader launches in his TIE Advanced.
- 874) Vader takes out Y-Wings.
- 875) "Biggs, you've picked one up".
- 876) The Death Star crew prepare to hijack a shuttle.
- 877) "Evacuate? In our moment of triumph?"
- 878) Shuttle escapes the Death Star. Vader heads to deal with it but is called back to defend the trench.
- 879) "Negative. It didn't go in. Just impacted on the surface".
- 880) Biggs is killed.
- 881) This section of the DS version shows X2 providing back-up to Luke as he makes the trench run.
- 882) The Death Star is destroyed.
- 883) Apart from the opening pages this is the first page (after adapting the movie) to contain original dialogue as we see Vader cursing the Rebels.
- 884) Vader after the Death Star blows.
- 885) Back on Yavin 4.
- 886) Soontir Fel at the Battle of Ord Biniir, concurrent with the Battle Of Yavin.
- 887) Stormtroopers, who managed to get into escape pods on the Death Star, attack the Rebel base.
- 888) Bevel Lemelisk is executed by the Emperor for the first time.
- 889) Assuming the medal ceremony is the day after the battle
- 890) Vader lands on Vaal.
- 891) Before medal ceremony.
- 892) Medal ceremony.
- 893) After medal ceremony.
- 894) This few months directly after "A New Hope" are a bit congested to say the least, with lots of stories (including the Missions series, Rebel Force series, Marvel comics, and L.A.Times comic strips to name but a few) that clearly weren't written with continuity in mind, but I've done my best!
- 895) The "Star Wars Missions" books were a series of solo-player adventure books aimed at younger readers. Each book opened with a few chapters of story, followed by the adventure section, and the then story takes over again to wrap up the books. There are several distinct arcs throughout the series. Which bounce around the original trilogy timeline. This first book starts while the celebrations are still going strong on Yavin 4. Chapter 2 part one ends with Imperial Captain Skeezer heading to Yavin after losing communications with the Death Star, which is a handy gap to squeeze the next entry into.
- 896) Vader on Vaal (night).
- 897) Night on Yavin after the celebrations. Luke takes his X-Wing out, shoots down a lone pilot, crashes and fights the downed pilot, taking us through until morning the next day.
- 898) Vader on Vaal (morning).
- 899) Very few of the day counts in these early weeks are officially noted in the texts, but educated guesses on my part.
- 900) Vader leaves Vaal.
- 901) Assuming news of Alderaan's destruction has spread to the galaxy at large.
- 902) This section starts at "03:00". Palpatine is aware of the Death Star's destruction.
- 903) This first chapter is isolated enough from the rest of the story that it can safely slot in here in order to make things fit.
- 904) From here on I haven't needed to split any of the "Missions" books.
- 905) These pages lead into Vader's return to Coruscant
- 906) Vader arrives back on Coruscant in a Lamda-class shuttle.

- 907) We don't see Vader land in this story, so even though we see a TIE-Advanced behind him that doesn't mean that he didn't arrive in the shuttle from the last entry. Vader then reports to the Emperor before sparring with his secret apprentice, Tao.
- 908) 3 weeks after "Tinian On Trial".
- 909) The comic strips in "SW Kids Magazine" were written by Ryder Windham around the same time he was writing the "Missions" books, leading to some crossover between the 2 series.
- 910) Night.
- 911) Dawn.
- 912) This in-universe document shows the Empire having identified the Millennium Falcon as being involved in the Battle of Yavin.
- 913) Soontir Fel is promoted from Captain to Major and meets Wynssa Starflare, sister of Wedge Antilles.
- 914) Absolutely do not take this placement as gospel, but there was a handy gap between other stories featuring the droids.
- 915) Chapter 2 specifically starts 2 weeks after the Battle of Yavin. I've tried to track the number of days that pass in each story as best I can.
- 916) This opening report states "in the short time since the Battle Of Yavin".
- 917) Han leaves the Rebellion behind and is ambushed by Crimson Jack. Page 7 is Han and Chewie's arrival on Aduba-3 but luckily there isn't a single thing in the story to state definitively that this event happens immediately after, gifting me some handy wiggle room.
- 918) This story dates itself as "just after A New Hope" and shows the Empire retaliating for the loss of the Death Star.
- 919) This prologue is disconnected enough from the main story to warrant the split to accommodate other stories.
- 920) This comic was originally serialised in the short-lived "Pizzazz" magazine, published by Marvel Comics.
- 921) Although this comic started in "Pizzazz" magazine, the publication was cancelled with the final two parts unreleased. The story was completed 4 months later in "Star Wars UK Weekly".
- 922) In chapter 2 Han mentions that he has lost the reward to a pirate, which we can assume is Crimson Jack (see the opening pages "Star Wars (1977) #7"). Since the rest of that issue isn't mentioned I've made the assumption that's "Scoundrels" takes place before Han and Chewie visit Aduba-3.
- 923) Soontir Fel and Wynssa Starflare are dating.
- 924) This Imperial broadcast reports that Tarkin, Motti and Tagge were killed in a shuttle crash.
- 925) #7 Han and Chewie land on Aduba-3. #14 Our heroes are reunited. #15 ends with Han saying "It's a long trip home", which I've assumed to mean Yavin.
- 926) By my reckoning these issues span 4 days.
- 927) A few points on my timeline placement here: X-7, under his alias of Tobin Elad, has integrated himself enough with the Rebels on Yavin that it's feasible that some time has passed since "Rebel Force #2". Han says to Leia at one point "After all the times I've saved your skin", implying that there's been a few adventures since "A New Hope".
- 928) This issue states it's been "5 weeks" since #21, but there just isn't anyway to make that work.
- 929) These 2 conflicting stories regarding Vader learning the name of the pilot who destroyed the Death Star have since been retconned with Vader learning the surname in "Vader's Quest" and Luke's full name in "Star Wars (1977) #35".
- 930) This section of "Perfect Evil" is a third version of Vader finding out the name of the Rebel who destroyed the Death Star.
- 931) Vader knows Luke's name in this book.
- 932) This 2013 "Star Wars" comic run (sometimes called "Star Wood", after the writer Brian Wood) was a soft reboot as sorts, and not beholden to existing continuity. As such we get things like the Super Star Destroyer "Executor" in service before it should be, Luke's first return visit to Tatooine....again, another new name to add to the list of people who designed the Death Star, and the birth of Rogue Squadron....again, to name a few. But on the other hand, it is one of only a very small handful of works to reference the Living Force campaign.

- 933) this vignette mentions the Ylesia conflict from the Han Solo Trilogy as being "not long ago".
- 934) This short childrens book was only released with the Hasbro Playskool version of the Millenium Falcon, part of the Jedi Force toy range.
- 935) The next few entries see Han and Chewie off on their own adventures without the rest of the group, and I've grouped them together for ease.
- 936) Han has the bounty on his head.
- 937) There is very few internal pointers to place this story, but Han is wearing a similar outfit to Chewie's cowboy look in "The Corellian Kid"....it's a tenuous link but sometimes you've got to work with what you've got.
- 938) I've deliberately put this choose-you-own-adventure type book, featuring Luke on a solo mission, at a point I know Han and Chewie are also off on their own.
- 939) Another choose-your-own-adventure, this time featuring Platt O'Keefe.
- 940) The animated section of infamous "Star Wars Holiday Special" was given its own title when it was released onto Disney+.
- 941) Yes, that is legendary comics author Alan Moore, of "Watchmen" (and many more) fame.
- 942) Although this book is technically an adventure module for the WEG roleplaying game it stands apart from some of the other modules in that there are several vignettes and in-universe documents throughout the book that help form the narrative, hence its inclusion here, as adventure modules on their own usually don't qualify.
- 943) This is the first entry of a long series of comic strips printed by the L.A.Times Newspaper syndicate. Although they ran alongside the "Star Wars (1977)" run by Marvel the two storylines were written in isolation and are hard to reconcile. They have since been reprinted by Dark Horse, Marvel, and IDW.
- 944) Let's assume this is the same Life Day as "The Holiday Special".
- 945) Although this tale could happen at any point during the Galactic Civil War era, I've anchored it around the Life Day in "The Holiday Special", assumed it is the same Celebration featured in this story, and worked out the other entries from there using the number of days mentioned in the Journal.
- 946) Standard out-of-order Star Wars storytelling here. The frame story for both this and "The Kashyyyk Depths" see C-3PO relaying his adventures to the Rebel Alliance supercomputer Mistress Mnemos, starting with this story (so we're assuming the flashback happens shortly before the frame story) followed by the retelling of "The Kashyyyk Depths" despite it happening earlier. Dark Horse, in conjunction with Kenner, released a one shot of this story that completely omitted the frame story.
- 947) This entry refers to a short one-page comic strip released by Kellogg's as an Apple Jacks promotion. The preceding and subsequent entries also feature Luke back on Tatooine with the droids.
- 948) This story was never republished in print, in any format, until Marvel's "Epic Collection: The Newspaper Strips Volume 1" in 2017.
- 949) I've added the "Classic Star Wars" subtitle to the newspaper strips from this entry on to reflect the naming used by Dark Horse Comics when they reprinted this series as standard single issue comics.
- 950) In this story the Executor is still under construction which would imply it's closer to "The Empire Strikes Back", but the Rebels are still based on Yavin.
- 951) The first "official" news report about what really happened to Alderaan.
- 952) This was the final Legends novel to be released, on March 4th 2014, with the unfortunate acronym of SWEARHAT – "Star Wars: Empire And Rebellion – Honor Among Thieves". The third book of this proposed trilogy (Heir To The Jedi) became one of the first canon novels.
- 953) Imperial HoloVision report that Alderaan was indeed destroyed by an Imperial battle station, in response to "Bail Organa's biowar program".
- 954) The "then" section of this trilogy is dated as "shortly after A New Hope". There is nothing more concrete than this within the story itself, however Palpatine and Vader seem to have come to terms with the destruction of the Death Star.
- 955) "Star Wars: Cantina" was a mobile phone video game released in 2010 but discontinued a year later. Although essentially a "Diner-Dash" clone, it had its own storyline, involving Robb, a Besalisk, running the Thirsty Bantha Cantina on Tatooine to earn enough to pay back his debts to a local loan shark, told in animated cutscenes.

- 956) This entry refers to the whole game except for the final level, which is set during Dark Empire.
- 957) This Dark Horse one-shot was not only a tie-in to "Shadows Of The Empire" but also served as a sequel to the Classic story "Return Of Ben Kenobi" and prequel to "Iceworld", but despite this it is mistakenly labelled within the comic itself as taking place 3 years after the Battle Of Yavin.
- 958) Darth Vader is given command of the Executor.
- 959) The Executor is publicly revealed.
- 960) The Executor in the skies of Coruscant.
- 961) This Nintendo DS exclusive level shows X2 on a mission in the debris of the Death Star and shows the Yavin blockade.
- 962) This PSP exclusive level sees an immediate Imperial counter attack following the destruction of the DS, ending with the evacuation order being given, However this mission makes much more sense being placed here with the rest of the stories detailing the evacuation of Yavin. It also features Col Serra, from Battlefront: Renegade Squadron, on a mission with X2 to attack a Star Destroyer in Yavin's orbit. This helps place it after the first Renegade Squadron mission as that was purely ground based.
- 963) The evacuation complete as the Empire strikes Yavin and the Rebels escape the blockade. Luke is promoted to Commander in this story, although his official rank isn't something that has ever been consistent.
- 964) After the Rebel fleet enters hyperspace. Luke says "See you in the Hoth system".
- 965) The Hoth base is seemingly already established at the end of this comic, but further stories show many other bases between Yavin and Hoth, so let's assume the Hoth base takes a very long time to get fully up and running, so we'll return to this series later on in the timeline.
- 966) This short-lived comic series only lasted for 3 issues.
- 967) In this issue we see Luke gift his uncle's moisture farm to an alien called Throgg, an event later referenced in the novel "X-Wing: Rogue Squadron".
- 968) Even though this series was written 5 years after the L.A. Times strips that covered the Yavin evacuation, in this comic we see Luke and Han return to Yavin to find it already evacuated. Upon reunited with the rest of the fleet, Han suggests Hoth as a possible new base.
- 969) Bo'Shek has a run-in with a Rebel cell under the command of Garm Bel Ibis.
- 970) A lot of the movie-themed "Galaxy Guides" combined details Voren Na'al's travels while he told the story of the movie events and interviewed our heroes, but none more so than here where he mentions being on Thila, the first main Rebel base following the evacuation of Yavin. Thila base has been evacuated by the time of "Empire #38", 2 months after this entry.
- 971) Let's assume the unnamed Rebel base mentioned in this entry, and seen in the next, is Thila.
- 972) This issue dates itself as "6 months" after Yavin, but the credit page blurb makes it clear it's post-evacuation.
- 973) The "Galaxy Of Fear" series were "Goosebumps"-style junior reader books. Each book featured a cameo from characters throughout the Expanded Universe, including Thrawn, Jerec, Dash Rendar, Platt O'Keefe, and many more.
- 974) Mon Mothma and Garm Bel Ibis have a heated argument that ends with Bel Ibis leaving the Alliance.
- 975) News report on the above.
- 976) Colonel Crix Madine is still with the Empire.
- 977) This news report is detailing the Super Star Destroyer construction program happening at Fondor.
- 978) See footnote #356.
- 979) Thrawn is a Captain at this point.
- 980) The information in this WEG sourcebook is presented with in-universe commentary by the "author". Few of the vignettes have any timeline cues so I've simply spread them out.
- 981) New Year Fete Week.
- 982) Bakura is taken over by the Empire.
- 983) This report references the events of "Classic Star Wars: The Bounty Hunter Of Ord Mantell".
- 984) Crix Madine defects to the Rebel Alliance.
- 985) Dark Troopers attack Tak Base.

- 986) The "Dark Forces" manual opens with this in-universe entry in the form of a communication between Jan Ors and Mon Mothma.
- 987) The order to release the Candorian plague on the people of Dentaal is what prompted Crix Madine to defect.
- 988) Soontir Fel forms the 181st Fighter Group, and marries Wynssa Starflare.
- 989) This tale has to be late enough on the timeline to be after all of Pondo Baba's other appearances, as well as giving Dr. Evazan enough time to have built an extensive lab.
- 990) Soontir Fel and Wynssa on honeymoon.
- 991) "Star Wars Galaxies" was an MMORPG that ran from 2003 to 2011, when the servers were shut down. During those 8 years there was a wealth of new fiction published online in relation to the game. Due to the nature of its MMORPG-style, there was no fixed-storyline that ran through the game, rather a number of quests that players could embark on. The generally accepted date for the games events is 1.5 aby, but rather than lump all the various stories at one point in time I have spread them between 1aby and 3aby. This entry was a series of comic panels, made using the in-game engine, and in-universe communications.
- 992) The Empire blames the 'Alderaan bio-war lab' for the plague outbreak on Dentaal.
- 993) The following series of Mustafar-related short stories were all released as a tie-in to the "Trials Of Obi-Wan" expansion.
- 994) This refers to the opening introductory vignette that starts this adventure module. A message at the end of the adventure confirms the end of the operation to be 36:4:16.
- 995) So little of this 1979 children's book fits with any later storytelling that I'm placing the story (and Luke's apparent attendance at the "New Academy For Space Pilots") here in the relatively barren space of 1 ABY.
- 996) A very tenuous pairing but why not link the Space Rescue Corps from this story with the Planetary Pioneers from "The Maverick Moon".
- 997) Lando Calrissian wins ownership of Cloud City.
- 998) This is actually a series of five short stories released as part of the "Legacy Quest" event in SWG.
- 999) This series of vignettes was written to tie-in to quests in the "Rage Of The Wookiees" expansion pack, and published in the official Prima game guide.
- 1000) This one is a bit of a timeline breaker! The story indicates it has been months since #11, and that the entire series takes place over the course of a year, and yet the closing scene is clearly intended to lead into Boba Fett's appearance aboard the Executor in "The Empire Strikes Back".
- 1001) "More than a month" since Lando won Cloud City.
- 1002) This in-universe document was actually attached to the bottom of a gameplay article entitled "Political Intrigue In Bestine".
- 1003) So this was one of the deepest rabbit holes I've fallen down in my lifelong quest to find all licensed Star Wars fiction. As a paid subscribers of the "Star Wars Galaxies" you also had access to a virtual/digital competitive trading card game (similar to Pokemon, or Dragonball Z). Aside from the initial release, this trading card game had a number of expansion packs that expanded the variety of cards available. One of the gameplay options was 'scenario', a story-based competitive mode against an AI opponent. These 'scenarios' were released with original fiction, based on either a light-side or dark-side approach (I haven't differentiated between the two here, just one entry). As well as a 'core' storyline for each expansion pack, there were also bonus scenarios released along the way, again with new fiction, albeit much shorter.
- 1004) Wookieepedia places this story in 0 ABY, but I believe that is based on the opening lines that refer to the dissolution of the senate, as opposed to the content of the story itself which specifically places itself as 2 years after that fact.
- 1005) This entry refers to a series of communications that are spread throughout the book.
- 1006) This RPG article is scattered with researcher notes from Voren Na'al to Arhul Hextrophon, and specifically places itself as 2 years after the events of the Marvel comic arc it refers to.
- 1007) This vignette, and the following one, is one of very few examples of these small throwaway vignettes featuring the same character (albeit with a minor spelling mistake in one). "Galaxy Guide #6" is also the most sparse sourcebook in terms of fiction, with only this one vignette.

- 1008) This TCG scenario does so much right, and has so many callbacks, such as Col Serra of Renegade Squadron working alongside Han Solo, but then drops a clanger by throwing Lando in the mix too, with no mention of bad blood between Lando and Han.
- 1009) This story states that it takes place in the 3rd year of a 5 year mission in the Unknown Regions. In reality, Thrawn returned to the main galaxy several times (or, in other words, the popular character was shoehorned into lots of stories that make his chronology complicated). See next footnote.
- 1010) Thrawn is rumoured to be en-route to Coruscant.
- 1011) Moff Jerjerrod is put in charge of the second Death Star.
- 1012) Vader is assigned to Death Squadron.
- 1013) The Executor is officially commissioned after finishing a 6 month shakedown 5 weeks ago. Thrawn, now an Admiral, is at the ceremony.
- 1014) Unlike most WEG sourcebooks, the narrative of this adventure module is told throughout the book in a series of interconnected short stories, vignettes, and in-universe documents.
- 1015) Thrawn is mentioned as being absent for the New Years Fete celebrations. Maybe he's returned to the Unknown Regions.
- 1016) One of the ugliest splits of the entire Legends timeline, as this story is written as following straight on from the previous one in the series. I'm not even sure the 3 year gap between "A New Hope" and "The Empire Strikes Back" had been established back in 1983. Placing at the end of 2 ABY to act as the introduction to "The Empire Strikes Back" that it was clearly intended to be.
- 1017) Chapter 8, which is during "The Empire Strikes Back", takes place 'months' after this one.
- 1018) This is the third iteration of the British magazine. It started as "Star Wars Weekly" before being rebranded as "The Empire Strikes Back Weekly", and then becoming a monthly rather than a weekly release with issue #140. At issue #159 it was renamed again as "Star Wars Monthly" (see next entry).
- 1019) This 4 book arc of the Missions series is full of conflicting timeline cues, which we'll cover here. Big Gizz and Spiker mention the Falcon's escape from Mos Eisley, with Obi-Wan Kenobi on board, was recently. The Modal Nodes are still playing Mos Eisley Cantina. The Rebels are still on Yavin, with Q-7N (who "dies" in Missions #20), and Jabba has bounty hunters hunting Han Solo....all of which place it very close to ANH. In addition, IG-88 is out bounty hunting, in the IG-2000, which places it after chapter 7 of "Therefore I Am: The Tale Of IG-88" (which is a couple of entries prior to this one)....however this cue is confused further by the fact the lead the droid is following is based on the events of "SW Kids: The Rebel Thief", which is also post-ANH. But the final point that pushed me towards this placement is that the droid 12-4C-41 (arguable the main protagonist of this arc) states that the Cloud City incident with EV-9D9 was "years" ago, and that 9D9 is rumoured to be working at Jabba's Palace. This is the timeline cue that takes priority for me, since 14-4C-41 is in all 4 books whereas some of the other timeline cues I've noted are just passing mentions. Since that event (in chapter one of "A Bad Feeling: The Tale Of EV-9D9") takes place after Lando wins ownership of Cloud City mid-way through 1 ABY, placing these books at the end of 2 ABY is about the only way to make the "years ago" comment make sense (even if the other timeline cues don't).
- 1020) A condensed version of this story, only including the first half, was also featured in "Star Wars Tales #5".
- 1021) There were a huge amount of tie-in stories to the "Ewoks" TV show (more on which shortly) released in the 1980's. As you can imagine, none of these were written with the obsessive timeliner in mind so you'll just have to trust that I've done my research here (many years before deciding to write this book) about the "best" possible chronological order. It does mean however, with so many stories crammed into these first 2 months of the year that there literally is not a dull day in the life of the Ewoks. And also with this year being so Ewok heavy, you'll find non-Ewok stories that take place within the time frame slotted between Ewok stories just to break things up.
- 1022) There isn't anything in this story to easily timestamp it, so I've settled for the fact it was released alongside "Threat Of The Conqueror".
- 1023) The "Tales From Mos Eisley" comics are some of the weirdest Star Wars comics ever written (and that includes the 80's UK entries). Timeline placement is non-existent but the general consensus is 3 ABY. Although I can't actually find any evidence of reason for this.
- 1024) Dengar meets Manaroo.

- 1025) See footnote #533.
- 1026) See footnote #536.
- 1027) This report references the events of "Rebel Mission To Ord Mantell".
- 1028) Imperial probots enter wider service.
- 1029) This news reports breaks the story that Lando is now Baron Administrator of Cloud City, despite the fact that happened 18 months ago. Although the reporter was unable to confirm how long he has held the position.
- 1030) See footnote #534.
- 1031) This unpublished Adventure Journal continues the story of Celia 'Crimson' Durasha from "Crimson Bounty" and "Crimson Jailbreak".
- 1032) Vader and Thrawn plan the Derra IV ambush in the next entry.
- 1033) There is much less original material in this adaptation so I'm only including scenes that don't already exist in the movie. This scene details an Imperial ambush, at Derra IV, on a Rebel convoy transporting supplies to Hoth. However, each scene adds significantly more dialogue and the whole thing is well worth a listen.
- 1034) Fel's 181st Fighter Group carry out the Derra IV ambush and celebrated by the Emperor on Coruscant.
- 1035) The Empire launches probe droids to find the Rebels. This scene doesn't appear in the novelisation.
- 1036) Probe droids are launched, Palpatine forces Vader to strike down Tao, his secret apprentice, and Vader returns to the Lars' Tatooine homestead to express his hope for the future now that he knows about his son.
- 1037) A probe droid lands on Dagobah.
- 1038) Our heroes on Hoth before the probe droid lands.
- 1039) Probe droid lands > Luke attacked by Wampa.
- 1040) Artoo and Threepio accidentally thaw out Leia's room on Hoth (and are still bickering about it in the movie).
- 1041) "I'd just as soon kiss a Wookiee".
- 1042) Clearly this story isn't meant to be taken seriously, but who's to say there wasn't more than one probe droid on Hoth.
- 1043) Luke escapes Wampa.
- 1044) Obi-Wan appears to Luke.
- 1045) Han finds Luke.
- 1046) Han and Luke in the shelter.
- 1047) Base doors are closed for the night.
- 1048) Rogue Squadron launches.
- 1049) "The sun that was creeping over Hoth's northern horizon".
- 1050) Han & Luke rescued > Luke in bacta.
- 1051) "Months" after chapter 7. IG-88 intercepts the probe droids transmission.
- 1052) Dash Rendar arrives on Hoth.
- 1053) Assuming Luke spends the rest of day 2 in bacta.
- 1054) Boba Fett arrives at Hoth, before the Empire, has a nap.
- 1055) "Scruffy-looking nerf herder" > probe reports in > Han destroys droid.
- 1056) Voren Na'al records his thoughts on the Wampa attack from the night before (originally planned for the movie but never completed).
- 1057) This section spans a significant period of time until Dengar infiltrates the Rebels and is assigned to Hoth.
- 1058) Artoo and Threepio part ways, Luke in his quarters.
- 1059) The Imperial fleet arrive in the Hoth system.
- 1060) A new scene with Han and Luke. Rogue Flight called to briefing.
- 1061) Leia briefs pilots.
- 1062) Vader briefs Lt. Tantor on the battle plan.
- 1063) "Our first catch of the day".
- 1064) Transports are in the air, AT-AT's disembark, battle at the ion cannon.
- 1065) First ion blast.
- 1066) Aboard the Star Destroyer Tyrant after it's hit by the ion blast.
- 1067) "Right now I feel like I could take on the whole Empire myself."
- 1068) Before Han finds Leia to evacuate her.

1069) AT-AT attack, Luke is shot down and takes out the AT-AT.

1070) Assuming the "downed snowspeeder" mentioned here was Lukes.

1071) "2 hours" before the bounty hunter scene aboard the Executor.

1072) Han and Leia in corridor.

1073) Part 4 is "8.37" minutes after part 2.

1074) Dash Rendar flies a snowspeeder against the Imperial forces. Level ends with the shield generator being destroyed.

1075) Shield generator destroyed > Luke regains consciousness.

1076) The first part of this level shows us what Luke was up to after downing the AT-AT.

1077) Threepio pulls a warning sign off a door, as seen in the original trailer for the movie, which was a deleted sub-plot involving a Wampa attack on Echo Base.

1078) Vader enters hangar > the Falcon takes off.

1079) The Falcon takes off.

1080) Dash watches the Falcon take off and he has to fight his way through Echo Base.

1081) Dengar watches the Falcon take off before being captured by the Empire.

1082) General Madine is captured once the Imperials storm Echo Base. Wedge leads a failed rescue mission. This summary covers both the light side and dark side scenarios.

1084) The Rebels rescue Madine from the Tyrant after Topyn Farr directs a (second) ion blast at the Destroyer. This summary covers both the light side and dark side scenarios.

1085) Topyn Farr escapes on Bright Hope, the last transport to leave Hoth, before it is disabled by Zuckuss and 4-LOM.

1086) Piett reports to Vader > the Falcon's hyperdrive fails.

1087) Voren Na'al recounts the battle.

1088) Madine makes it back to the Rebel fleet.

1089) Dash blasts his way through TIEs and asteroids to escape the system.

1090) Luke takes down TIEs in atmosphere.

1091) Luke and Wedge attack a Star Destroyer in orbit.

1092) Wedge recounts the events of the previous entry, although there are discrepancies between the two.

1093) This video game level shows us that Luke's trouble weren't over even after he took off in his X-wing, while X2 completes his own mission.

1094) "We're going to the Dagobah system," > asteroid field > arrival at Dagobah.

1095) Arrival at Dagobah.

1096) Vader visits Dengar in cell (night). "This chance encounter has given me an idea. We will assemble a team of bounty hunters to assist in our operation".

1097) Vader meditation chamber (interestingly, in the novel Vader is in front of a lot of computer screens, not in his meditation sphere) > "I cannot teach him. The boy has no patience!"

1098) "I cannot teach him. The boy has no patience!"

1099) The Rebel's intercept the communication sending the Tyrant to Bespin, and arrive there "the next day". The problem here is that scenario #4 leads directly in to scenario #5, which deals with sees Fett escaping with Solo, and makes no allowance for a timejump.

1100) Vader has his call with the Emperor.

1101) Here we learn that Prince Xizor was just off-screen during the above.

1102) The Falcon leaves the space slug.

1103) This vignette, which provides some backstory for the space slug, doesn't have any clear timeline cues so I've placed it here after the space slug's appearance.

1104) Luke trains and starts his run with Yoda on his back.

1105) Luke trains and finishes his run with Yoda.

1106) Boba Fett receives the call inviting him to the meeting of bounty hunters on the Executor.

1107) IG-88 receives the same call.

1108) Zuckuss and 4-LOM board the Executor.

- 1109) The bounty hunters arrive on the Executor.
- 1110) Zuckuss prepares for the meeting with Vader.
- 1111) Bounty hunters scene.
- 1112) "1.29 hours" after part 6.
- 1113) Tinian I'att arrives on the Executor too late for the meeting.
- 1114) After briefing.
- 1115) Tinian I'att tricks Bossk into working with her.
- 1116) Luke trains on Dagobah > the Falcon escapes with the trash.
- 1117) Tinian I'att and Bossk leave the Executor.
- 1118) Starts at least "2.11 hours" after part 10.
- 1119) Vader is attacked by a bounty hunter who was late for the earlier meeting.
- 1120) "2.6 hours" after part 15.
- 1121) The days get hard to track here. Assuming the Falcon has started it's sunlight journey to Bespin, and also making the assumption that Luke's visit to the cave didn't happen on the very same day that he first meets Yoda, as expanded upon in a later footnote.
- 1122) Vader sends the Tyrant to Bespin to "Remove a Jedi diplomat who undermines the Empire's negotiations on Cloud City". They arrive at Bespin "2 days" later.
- 1123) Imperial HoloVision reports on the Empire's victory on Hoth.
- 1124) The dragonsnake's narration states it has been "a few days" since Luke arrived on Dagobah - day 3 of the movie. We see Luke training with Yoda and I'm making the assumption that the scene at the tree cave hasn't yet happened.
- 1125) Each of the mission breakdowns in the Strategy Guide continue the Maarek Stele story through prose as well as first person in-universe mission debriefs. This first mission is approx. 3 days after the Battle of Hoth. I have also made note of any timings mentioned within the guide (whether missions take place days/weeks, or even straight after the previous) to try and place them as accurately as possible rather than just spreading them out evenly.
- 1126) IG-88 decides to upload itself into the second Death Star.
- 1127) Evening. Yoda states that he will send Luke to recover the Dragonsnake treasure "tomorrow".
- 1128) As mentioned earlier, I've spread the many Ewoks stories out as evenly as I can, but I tried to avoid placing any in the middle of movie events.
- 1129) Luke's quest to retrieve the Dragonsnake treasure begins.
- 1130) Shortly after the Battle of Hoth.
- 1131) The X-Wing Alliance Strategy Guide is written as in in-universe recollection of the droid MK-09. As such the full story can be best enjoyed by reading the guide alongside playing the game.
- 1132) Night.
- 1133) Luke wakes Yoda up.
- 1134) Luke faces the King Dragonsnake.
- 1135) Evening.
- 1136) As the main story of "Luke Skywalker And The Treasure Of The Dragonsnakes" clearly spans 3 days, working on the assumption that that story happens before the tree cave scene means that the first part of the movie spans a total of 9 days.
- 1137) Another story set during Luke's time training on Dagobah. Rather than add yet another day before the tree cave scene, let's assume this was earlier that same day.
- 1138) Tree cave scene.
- 1139) After the above.
- 1140) See footnote #536.
- 1141) This vignette covers the recollections of MK-09 of Ace's first 7 missions for the Rebel Alliance.
- 1142) There are a bunch of levels from various video games concerned with the rescue of prisoners taken from Echo Base following the Battle Of Hoth. I've tried my best to order them in a manner that makes sense.
- 1143) Thrawn is a Vice Admiral.
- 1144) The UK 1988 Ewoks annual contained 3 prose short stories.

- 1145) The amount of time it takes for Falcon's to reach Bespin (due to the journey taking place at sublight, rather than lightspeed thanks to the problems with the hyperdrive) has been debated for years. Pablo Hidalgo once suggested the trip took as long as 8 months, although this was in the early 90's and would mean the movie ended just before Jedi began, leaving no room for Shadows Of The Empire, the Star Wars (1977) Marvel run, or the myriad of other tales set between the movies. I have taken a more pragmatic approach and settled for 6-8 weeks, giving time for Luke's training, as well as accommodating those few off-screen stories that benefit from some extra time.
- 1146) This final page happens "some time after" the rest of the story. Vader receives a message from Bespin. As "Thank The Maker" shows Vader already on Bespin when the Falcon arrives, Han must've called ahead.
- 1147) IG-88 tracks Fett to Bespin.
- 1148) Vader arrives on Bespin.
- 1149) The Falcon hasn't yet arrived at Bespin. Fett destroys IG-88A.
- 1150) The Falcon arrives at Bespin > Threepio gets shot.
- 1151) Other IG-88's receive transmission from the one destroyed by Fett.
- 1152) The disembodied Threepio is delivered to Vader. This section ends with Vader ordering the droid to be destroyed and wanting to discuss "tomorrow's meeting with Calrissian".
- 1153) The way this section opens describing Luke's new confidence with the Force helps justify the timejump.
- 1154) The game places these group of missions as concurrent to the events of "The Empire Strikes Back". It makes sense that the Rebels would target other Imperial tibanna gas supplies whilst there was an Imperial presence at Bespin.
- 1155) Dusk. Luke, on Dagobah, has his vision.
- 1156) Chewie finds Threepio with the Ugnaughts > Vader 'dinner' scene.
- 1157) Expands on the Vader 'dinner' scene.
- 1158) After the Vader 'dinner' scene.
- 1159) Night. Obi-Wan tries to convince Luke to finish his training.
- 1160) The disembodied Threepio has been found in the heroes apartment and returned to Vader. In a moment of nostalgia he orders the droid to be returned to Chewbacca.
- 1161) The novelisation explicitly states that Luke leaves Dagobah at "dusk, the day after" he had his vision.
- 1162) This short comic was packaged exclusively with Hasbro action figures, from the Power Of The Force line, released in Italy. The frame story sees Yoda reflecting on the events of "The Phantom Menace" and Luke's place in all of this. As such, I've placed it just after Luke leaves Dagobah.
- 1163) Luke arrives on Bespin > Han frozen.
- 1164) The Empire ensure Boba Fett can leave Bespin.
- 1165) Slave I takes off.
- 1166) The Rebels fail to stop Boba Fett escaping with Han.
- 1167) Dengar watches Slave I leave Bespin.
- 1168) Vader/Luke duel > "The Empire is taking control of the city. I advise you to leave before more Imperial troops arrive."
- 1169) Lando tells Ars Fivvle to get to safety. This story is one of only a handful that translates Chewie's dialogue.
- 1170) "I am your father."
- 1171) This story of a young girl witnessing the duel between Luke and Vader only appears in the 1st edition of this book.
- 1172) The Falcon takes off.
- 1173) New scene of Threepio complaining as the Falcon takes off.
- 1174) Luke is rescued and the Falcon escapes.
- 1175) Vader retrieves Luke's hand and lightsaber.
- 1176) IG-88 C and D arrive at Bespin, "hours" after Fett has left.
- 1177) Empire attacking Bespin.
- 1178) I doubt it was the creators original intention to have such a specific timeframe but it has long been accepted, or retconned, that the show takes place in 3aby so I've spread the episodes out over the course of the year, from month 3 (in which much of the other tie in material happens). And yes that is Pail Dini of "Batman: The Animated Series" fame.

1179) 4 days (?) after the end of chapter 2.

1180) Aboard the Rebel medical frigate Hobbie tells Luke about his defection.

1181) Zuckuss sees Luke in medbay. This story doesn't at all factor in any sort of timejump for Luke's time on Dagobah. In fact, it barely allows for enough time for the events of the movie at all.

1182) I've put a best guess of 3 days between the escape from Bespin and the final scene of the movie. Enough time for Luke to heal and Lando to put a plan together to look for Han, as well as earn the trust of the Rebel Alliance.

1183) Voren Na'al watched the Falcon depart.

1184) This is the first entry for "Shadows Of The Empire", a 1996 multimedia project that takes place primarily in a novel and accompanying graphic novel, but also encompasses a video game, limited edition mini comics, WEG sourcebook and so much more, with unique scenes occurring in each. The story is so much more than just the novel. This prologue deals with Luke and Rogue Squadron defeating an Imperial attack on the Rebel fleet.

1185) Some notes about the timeline placement of "Shadows Of The Empire" as a whole. It is commonly placed at 3.5 ABY, however this isn't entirely accurate. "The Empire Strikes Back" starts in the 4th month of 3 ABY, and ends 'sometime' later (see earlier footnote, although this timeline places the end of "The Empire Strikes Back" approx. 9 weeks later), whilst "Return Of The Jedi" starts in the 1st month of 4 ABY (nearly exactly 4 years to the day of "A New Hope"). Halfway between the end of TESB and ROTJ would be, approximately, 40 weeks into 3 ABY. However, we also need enough time to fit in Star Wars (1977) #45-72, and the events of the TIE Fighter and X-Wing Alliance video games. Further to this, the events of SOTE are clearly intended to lead straight into ROTJ. Careful analysis of the text of the SOTE novel has led me to estimate the full length of time of the main storyline to be 28 days/4 weeks, and as such I've placed chapter 1 of the novel in week 48 of 3 ABY, leaving a week between the end of the book and the start of ROTJ. The graphic novel actually opens much earlier, hence the placing of this scene (where Emperor Palpatine recalls Darth Vader back to Coruscant) here. Due to the detailed nature of this timeline, you will find me jumping between many different media during SOTE – in this example opening with the Galoob mini comic that was included in certain Micro Machine toys accompanying this project and then switching to the graphic novel before finishing back with the Galoob comic to fully include all the dialogue written for this one scene.

1186) Vader recalled to Coruscant.

1187) This short story has Vader and Palpatine meeting on Wayland a "few days" after the Bespin duel, so maybe Vader was instructed to meet his Master there before returning to Coruscant as previously instructed.

1188) The opening prologue of the Strategy Guide sees Maarek reminiscing while receiving a medal, which ties in nicely to the prose following the "Rebel Arms Deal" mission.

1189) The story this takes inspiration from ("Star Wars (1977) #78) is not to be taken at face value (see later note) and states that Wedge was stranded on Hoth for months before meeting the scavengers.

1190) Despite this issue taking place during the post-ROTJ run, it specifically dates it as happening before the events of the movie.

1191) The reason for such a large gap between this mission and the last is that in the Strategy Guide the level "Destroy Imperial Sensor Net" mentions The Battle Of Hoth as still being recent. Also the use of experimental TIE models in the next few missions tie nicely into Grand Admiral Zaarin's TIE Defender program from the TIE Fighter video game, and levels from both games have been arranged according to this larger arc.

1192) This story specifically places itself 8 months before ROTJ.

1193) Placing this game here helps tie its 'new prototype TIE Fighter' storyline into other similar storylines around this time.

1194) There is a timejump of "weeks" in this story where Leia remains on the planet Shiva IV.

1195) Over a decade on from this episode Michael Reaves would write "Darth Maul: Shadow Hunter".

1196) The prototypes in this level are that of the TIE Defender.

1197) This level features TIE Defenders as an enemy ship, hence me placing it after the "Arms Race" Tour Of Duty from the TIE Fighter video game as we can assume there are now in active service.

- 1198) This mission is the last one in the Strategy Guide to continue the short story element of the book, however the rest of the mission debriefs are still presented in first person.
- 1199) This interactive board game saw players play along to a 60 minute VCR made up of new footage of Darth Vader, with James Earl Jones and David Prowse reprising their roles. The 'story' revolves around a group of Rebels (the players) trying to sabotage the second Death Star. Later sources retconned the Rebel team to comprise of Kyle Katarn and Shire Brie (Lumiya) as well as Corwin Shelvay and Erling Tredway, two characters who featured in West End Games material.
- 1200) This entry shows us the events of Star Wars (1977) #57 pages 17-20 from the point of view of Ars Fivle and his TV crew.
- 1201) This short story features Booster Terrik and Talon Karrde at a time when they're still rivals.
- 1202) An Imperial engineer recounts the events of Star Wars (1977) #60.
- 1203) Even though the frame story of this vignette is Wicket being interviewed by Voren Na'al, post-Battle of Endor, the main story is concerned with Wicket first seeing Imperial walkers on Endor. As such I've placed it before the finale of the Ewoks TV show since we see Imperials much more prominently.
- 1204) The Ewoks series finale is the only episode to show an Imperial presence on Endor, even though we don't see Imperials in the live action movies which happen after the TV show.
- 1205) Thrawn is promoted to Grand Admiral following this mission.
- 1206) Threepio recounts the events of Star Wars (1977) #67.
- 1207) This final expansion for TIE Fighter was only ever included in the Collector's edition.
- 1208) The various vignettes and short stories throughout this sourcebook shine a light on the machinations of Black Sun, and Price Xizor, outside the core story of SOTE, but eventually lead right into it.
- 1209) Mon Mothma grants Leia leave from Rebel Alliance Command to fully concentrate on finding Han.
- 1210) Although some of the fiction in this sourcebook just acts to introduce adventure modules you can still get the gist of the storyline without needing to actually play a game.
- 1211) This next section, covering IG-88's attempted ambush of Boba Fett, is told/re-told in 5 different sources: the Dark Horse comic, the Galoob mini comic, the IG-88 short story from "Tales Of The Bounty Hunters", the Boba Fett short story from "Tales From Jabba's Palace, and the "Battle Of The Bounty Hunters" pop-up book.
- 1212) This short story opens "The Barani Conspiracy", a 3 part adventure module. The following 2 entries open chapters 2 and 3 of the adventure.
- 1213) The prologue of this book leads directly into the start of "Shadows Of The Empire".
- 1214) Dash battles IG-88 on Ord Mantell.
- 1215) This vignette closes "The Barani Conspiracy". It is in this vignette that Xizor calls for the meeting of his Black Sun Vigo's that we see in chapter 4 of the novel.
- 1216) "Night".
- 1217) I am not going to provide a scene by scene breakdown of this book, as I have with the movies, and it would simply be too complicated considering the numerous additional sources. However, the day splits are all based on cues within the text.
- 1218) This section happens during chapter 4 part 1 of the novel, specifically expanding on the line "They told Luke why they'd come".
- 1219) "Late evening".
- 1220) Chapter 12 part 3 states it is "nearly a week" since the events of chapter 11.
- 1221) There is a lot of overlap between the novel, comic, and video game when it comes down to the swoop racers attack on Luke.
- 1222) I've reordered some pages of the graphic novel to more closely match the flow of the book.
- 1223) There is a 3 day jump midway during chapter 18.
- 1224) Hyperspace journeys all seem to take a couple of days in this book. Also, during their first meeting Guri tells Leia they will meet again in "3 or 4 days"....I've settled on 3.
- 1225) There is only one mention of Vader between SOTE chapters 19-21 and it doesn't specify that he's still on Coruscant, which makes it the perfect place to fit the next two TIE Fighter missions under the presumption that he is helping to enforce the pretence of the supercomputer being too important to leave in Rebel hands.

- 1226) Isolating this section of the graphic novel is purely a narrative choice on my part.
- 1227) Luke says he's been imprisoned for "a couple of days, at least".
- 1228) "Evening".
- 1229) This next few entries cover the Rebels stealing the supercomputer that eventually reveals to them the existence of a second Death Star. Unbeknownst to them this was a deliberate ploy by the Emperor, working off a suggestion from Prince Xizor.
- 1230) The second half of this book tells a very different version of Boba Fett delivering Han Solo to Jabba The Hutt than we see in the Dark Horse comic, while the following entry is a third different version.
- 1231) Originally intended to be post-ROTJ (even as late as 150 ABY during early planning stages), but has long since been retconned/established to take place in 3ABY, along with the rest of the Ewok cartoons, despite Wicket learning how to speak and understand Basic in this movie, and then not being able to understand Leia in ROTJ.
- 1232) This is one story that simply doesn't fit as it tells of a mission to rescue Wedge Antilles, having been stranded on Hoth for most of the past 9 months. It has, however, still been referenced in other materials but mostly under the premise of a tall tale that Wedge tells to new recruits.
- 1233) "Weeks" after part 1.
- 1234) Technically this is rounded down to the start of the year being 39:3:1 otherwise only the end of the movie takes place in 4 ABY.
- 1235) This touch-and-feel kids book sees Artoo and Threepio about to depart for Tatooine. While there are no timeline cues lets assume they travelled to the planet separate to Luke, prior to the events of ROTJ.
- 1236) Lando infiltrates Jabba's palace.
- 1237) The day before ROTJ.
- 1238) Lando has to pass a series of trials to earn his place at Jabba's side.
- 1239) This final Tour Of Duty concludes with the Battle Of Endor so I've spread the missions out to happen concurrently with the whole movie.
- 1240) A month after chapter 14 part 1.
- 1241) This vignette references both Kirtan Loo and Gil Bastra, tying into the larger arc of Corran Horn's story, and I like the idea of the unusual activity mentioned being part of the build up to the Battle of Endor.
- 1242) Vader departs Coruscant aboard the Executor, heading to the Death Star.
- 1243) This mission sees Wedge Antilles capture the Imperial shuttle Tydirium. However, it must fall back into the Empire's hands as there is another mission in just a couple of days to capture the same shuttle, this time in the X-Wing Alliance video game.
- 1244) Vader arrives at the Death Star.
- 1245) Luke in Obi-Wan's hut.
- 1246) Luke recording message for Jabba.
- 1247) Dengar makes bomb for Tessek, Jabba finds out, tells Boba to watch him.
- 1248) Droids arrive at Jabba's palace > Luke's hologram message.
- 1249) Luke's hologram message.
- 1250) As with the other 2 NPR dramas I'm only including original scenes not seen in the movie or novelisation. I haven't included the opening scene from this script of Luke building his new saber, as filmed for the movie but ultimately cut, as it was repurposed and expanded on for "Shadows Of The Empire". There are far fewer original scenes in this one compared to the last two, much of the extra material is just extra lines of dialogue, which is much harder to separate for this detailed chronological breakdown. As such I've made the call to focus purely on original scenes, and not original dialogue. however it does have the benefit of not being produced until the mid 90's, allowing it to pull from the early EU such as a later scene which features Mara Jade undercover at Jabba's palace. In this scene the droids are on their way to EV-9D9's dungeon.
- 1251) EV-9D9 greets the droids.
- 1252) After the droids arrive.
- 1253) Droid-C-41 catches up with EV-9D9 (see earlier footnote about Star Wars Missions#9-#12).
- 1254) Droids are in service around the palace. Bib discusses his future with one of the B'omarr spider droids.
- 1255) Bubo observes Fortuna talking to a B'omarr spider droid.

- 1256) Porcellus finds Ak-Buz's body, convinces the Gamorreans he's asleep, hides the body.
- 1257) Barada finds Ak-Buz's body in the scrap (morning). The Weequays start investigating the murder via a magic 8-ball (yes, really!).
- 1258) Threepio encounters Mara Jade, under her dancer alias of Arica, before Oola is killed.
- 1259) Oola's death.
- 1260) Just before Boushh scene.
- 1261) Oola's death > Boushh scene.
- 1262) Boushh scene.
- 1263) Phlegmin's body is found, after Boushh scene.
- 1264) This section states "that night", but this is still afternoon according to most other sources.
- 1265) Chewie in cell.
- 1266) Luke meets Bib Fortuna in Mos Eisley and tells him to bring an offer to Jabba.
- 1267) "Evening".
- 1268) Leia thaws Han.
- 1269) After Han has been thawed.
- 1270) Han in cell with Chewie.
- 1271) Leia is forced to spend the night with Fett in his chamber. This section states "The Jedi, if he was one, came a day later" but we will scrutinise this next.
- 1272) During my first draft of this super-detailed timeline I had Luke arriving at Jabba's Palace the morning after Leia thaws Han. However, a few of the stories in "Tales From Jabba's Palace" either mistook the number of days the first act of ROTC span, or there is information in the Lucasfilm holocron that states that this is not the case. Therefore I have had to add 2 extra days between these two events and luckily there is nothing in the movie or novelisation to explicitly state otherwise.
- 1273) A historian belonging to the B'omarr order visits Han in his cell. This book ends with Boba Fett on his way to see Han.
- 1274) Boba Fett visits Han, in his cell, to gloat.
- 1275) I've padded these extra 2 days with video game levels that I originally had placed at the end of day 1.
- 1276) Malakili kills Gonar and is fed to the Rancor.
- 1277) This entry states that "days pass" since part 5. The plural mention of days make this day 3. In this scene Gartogg sees Malakili feeding Gonar to the Rancor.
- 1278) Gartogg in kitchen with Phlegmin's body. This scene apparently starts "the next morning" after part 3, and ends "the following night" with Leia, on Jabba's dais, tasting Porcellus's food. If that same night was the night before Jabba's death above the Sarlacc then it would mean the heroes spend 4 days at Jabba's palace.
- 1279) Luke arrives at the Palace. . This section adds further weight to the addition of extra days as it starts an unspecified number of days earlier, inferred by the use of the phrase "one morning, Fortuna woke suddenly" as opposed to "the next morning".
- 1280) Lando makes contact with Leia. "Early morning".
- 1281) Luke arrives at "break of dawn" > Rancor killed.
- 1282) Luke kills the Rancor.
- 1283) This is another story misjudging the number of days spent at Jabba's Palace although in this instance it mistakenly adds a day between Luke's arrival at Jabba's Palace and the battle at the Pit Of Carkoon, when it's actually the same day.
- 1284) Jabba sentences the heroes to death.
- 1285) This story is told in one long section that leads with J'Quille killing the monk, which leads directly into the next entry.
- 1286) Leia's arrival in the palace was "last night" (which goes against the extra 2 days I've added). Section ends that night but also after the heroes have been sentenced.
- 1287) "Midday", sail barge being prepped.
- 1288) "Evening".
- 1289) Bubo swallows the detonator for Ree Yees's bomb.
- 1290) Prisoners being taken to sail barge.

- 1291) Jabba boarding skiff.
- 1292) This story is all told in one part and ends with Jabba boarding the sailbarge.
- 1293) Sailbarge leaves Palace.
- 1294) After the sailbarge has left.
- 1295) Mara communicates with the Emperor and returns to Mos Eisley.
- 1296) Sailbarge en route to the Great Pit of Carkoon.
- 1297) Sailbarge arrives at the Sarlacc.
- 1298) Approaching the Sarlacc.
- 1299) Fortuna watches Leia kill Jabba.
- 1300) Sailbarge explosion.
- 1301) "An hour" after part 4.
- 1302) This section covers the heroes boarding the Falcon during a sandstorm, a scene filmed for ROTJ but never used.
- 1303) Onboard the Falcon as it leaves Tatooine's atmosphere.
- 1304) Mara leaves Tatooine.
- 1305) Bubo hears of Jabba's death.
- 1306) Fortuna arrives back at the Palace (evening).
- 1307) Bubo's brain is placed into a B'omarr spider droid.
- 1308) Onboard the Falcon as it prepares to enter hyperspace.
- 1309) Tessek arrives back at the Palace (night).
- 1310) After Tessek returns to the palace. A "few days" since Oola's death, which fits with the addition of extra days.
- 1311) A second mission to steal the shuttle Tydirium.
- 1312) Grand Admiral Thrawn is leading the hunt for the traitor Zaarin, which explains his absence at the Battle of Endor.
- 1313) Mara arrives at Svivren.
- 1314) Rogue Squadron liberates Tibanna gas to supply the Rebel fleet.
- 1315) Mara on Svivren.
- 1316) This message arrives at Endor the day after ROTJ. I've assumed the 3 days hyperspace travel between Bakura and Endor, established by "Truce At Bakura", would apply to message drones as well as ships, meaning the message would have been sent on this date.
- 1317) "Just past dawn". This is the second time this story adds an unwarranted extra day to the story as Dengar watches the Falcon leave Tatooine.
- 1318) Palpatine arrives on the Death Star.
- 1319) "Morning".
- 1320) This story only appeared in the first edition of this sourcebook.
- 1321) Luke on Dagobah.
- 1322) "Two hours past noon".
- 1323) The Emperor tells Mara to return to Coruscant.
- 1324) The Rebels meet at Sullust, and the Falcon arrives.
- 1325) This entry starts at "dawn".
- 1326) Mara arrives at Coruscant.
- 1327) Reports of Rebel fleet massing at Sullust.
- 1328) Just before Mon Mothma starts briefing.
- 1329) Home One briefing.
- 1330) Han lends the Falcon to Lando.
- 1331) Mara on Coruscant.
- 1332) The shuttle Tydirium approaches Endor.
- 1333) Speeder chase > captured by Ewoks.
- 1334) Rebels carried to village > village night scene.
- 1335) IG-88 is fully integrated into the Death Star.
- 1336) Luke surrenders himself.

- 1337) The Rebel crew of the Flurry, later to appear in "The Truce At Bakura" arrives at Sullust.
- 1338) The Battle of Endor begins.
- 1339) Rebel commandos on Endor make their way to rendezvous with Han.
- 1340) Han and Leia recon the shield bunker > Paploo steals speeder bike.
- 1341) Mara plans her mission to find Dequc.
- 1342) Luke meets the Emperor.
- 1343) Bunker firefight > "It's a trap!"
- 1344) Bunker reinforcements arrive > "That blast came from the Death Star".
- 1345) "Your fleet is lost—and your friends on the Endor Moon will not survive ..." > Shield still up, Lando and Wedge take out a Star Destroyer from the inside.
- 1346) Expands on the previous entry.
- 1347) Vader reflects on his life and makes the decision to save Luke.
- 1348) Vader throws the Emperor down the reactor shaft.
- 1349) Mara witnesses the Emperor's death telepathically.
- 1350) Jeng Droga, one of the Emperor's Hands, feels Palpatine's death through the Force.
- 1351) Bunker destroyed > Falcon enters the Death Star.
- 1352) The Executor crashes into the Death Star.
- 1353) Luke and Anakin in hangar.
- 1354) Anakin Skywalker becomes one with the Force.
- 1355) The Death Star explodes.
- 1356) This video game level shows us X2's part in mopping up even after the Death Star explodes.
- 1357) Anakin's funeral pyre.
- 1358) Ewok village celebration.
- 1359) This story is told in a stylistic non-linear manner, but ends during the celebrations.
- 1360) "Night".
- 1361) Mara arrested by Ysanne Isard.
- 1362) This book starts the day after ROTJ. The number of other stories during this early days made it necessary to split the book day by day.
- 1363) The only way to make this comic fit, starting as it does on the same day as "Truce At Bakura" and showing Boba Fett's apparent escape from the Sarlacc (which itself clashing with later established lore), is to add an unintended timejump. As it happens, there's a perfect split between pages 5 and 6 for this to occur.
- 1364) This "Tales" story, of Luke and Leia still on Endor, suffers the same problem as "A Day In The Life" in that it is internally dated as "a few days" after the Battle Of Endor, however this one is easier to slot in here, as the following section of "Truce At Bakura" starts "early the next day" (after the first section).
- 1365) The novel states it takes "days to get to Bakura" which I've rounded down to 2, to keep the events of the book within a 6 day span and help to make "Rogue Leader" fit correctly later on, so leaving Endor on day 2 and arriving on Bakura on day 3.
- 1366) Kathy Tyers re-used this title for her book in the NJO series.
- 1367) This short story takes place 'off-screen' during chapter 16 of Truce At Bakura, specifically after the following passage: "Wouldn't surprise me," Han muttered. He steered down the drainage toward the wide river. An X-wing swept into position at his three o'clock, and the other came in at nine o'clock high. Leia waved. Inside the slanting cockpit, a slim black-gloved hand waved back."
- 1368) This vignette takes place 'off-screen' during chapter 20 of Truce At Bakura, specifically after the following passage: "You took off his restraining bolt?" Nereus's hands twitched at his sides. "You ought to lock him up," Gaeri whispered. "He's losing his grip." Eppie flicked her blaster's safety on and off. "I almost wish he'd try something."
- 1369) This short story takes place 'off-screen' during chapter 20 of Truce At Bakura, specifically after the following passage: "Safely on board the Falcon, Leia knelt beside Luke's bunk and rested her head on his shoulder. Delicately he accepted the link to her strength. He bathed himself in healing energy that felt clean, warm, and familiar. When he swallowed, his throat no longer burned. Soon, he could breathe without wanting to cough."

- 1370) This vignette shows us a conversation between Luke Skywalker and Pter Thanas that we already see in the novel, in chapter 20, but this time we see it from an alternate POV.
- 1371) This short story takes place 'off-screen' during chapter 20 of Truce At Bakura, specifically after the following passage: "Threepio appeared around the bend in the corridor. Commander Thanas matched his pace step for step. "Your droid tells interesting stories," Thanas commented drily. "Despite the fact that he insists--repeatedly--that he's not much of a storyteller. "Educating the prisoner, Threepio? Commander Thanas had probably gotten an earful of Alliance propaganda."
- 1372) Roman numerals have been used for this page number since standard numbers weren't used for the prologue of this reference book.
- 1373) I'm assuming these depositions took place back on Endor, taking into account the travel time.
- 1374) The same logic has been used here, as the Imperials travelled from Bakura to Corulag.
- 1375) This story is internally dated as "3 days after the Battle Of Endor", however at that point the Bakura mission is travelling to that planet, a mission that both Luke and Wedge are a part off. There is no space before that mission to fit this story, and there also needs to have been a period of time (whether that be days or weeks) since the last time Luke and Wedge last saw each other. My solution is that the "3 days" was a misprint, and it's closer to 13 days.
- 1376) The splitting up of this comic has the unintended bonus of fitting perfectly after "A Wookiee Scorned" with Han and Leia taking a trip by themselves after that story while Chewie comes to terms with their blossoming relationship. However, in order for the Boba Fett storyline to fit, we must accept that he escapes from the Sarlacc twice. In this story we see him use his jet pack to fly out, armour intact, before ending up back in the Sarlacc by the end of the issue. The following entry, "A Barve Like Us" doesn't directly contradict this
- 1377) Luke is on his own in this rather odd issue, despite it being released in the middle of an arc featuring Luke travelling with Plif, Rik Duel, Dani and Kiro, so I have moved it prior to those issues.
- 1378) I've had to shift the order of some of these issues around, based on the groupings of the main characters.
- 1379) This kids book tells an original story of Threepio finding parts for the Falcon for a "supply run". The fact that a Hoojib is mentioned helps to date in within the later Marvel '77 comic run, and the use of the words "supply run" helped lean towards me placing it here before issue #98.
- 1380) The Truce At Bakura dates this document as "approximately one week after the Battle Of Endor", directly after the Bakura mission. However, there are 8 issues of the 1977 Marvel run to fit in before the Alliance Of Free Planets is formed. So I have placed it at the end of the first week after Endor. However this does mean that there's only 3 weeks to squeeze in the Nagai-Tof war, before the formation of the New Republic.
- 1381) This one-shot was originally only available with promotional boxes of Kellog's Apple Jacks cereal.
- 1382) The internal dating of this story states it's been "a couple of weeks since Endor", which is exactly the same as the Corellia mission in "Rogue Leader" so let's assume this was the night before.
- 1383) This story mistakenly mentions the New Republic before it's actual formation. We're still in the 5 weeks covered by the Alliance of Free Planets.
- 1384) Although the whole Truce At Bakura sourcebook takes the form of the aforementioned "Report", it starts with this short story of Voren Na'al presenting his report to the Council. By placing it here, Voren Na'al has had a week to compile his report on the "Bakura Incident".
- 1385) This issue states that it takes place before #99.
- 1386) Every story that happens between this and issue #107 takes place against the backdrop of the Nagai-Tof war, despite it never being mentioned outside of this series. The starwars.com article "The Forgotten War: The Nagai And The Tofs" tried to weave the inconsistencies between the 1977 Marvel run and later Legends stories together, and align them with the formation of the New Republic.
- 1387) The original document in the "Heir To The Empire Sourcebook" dates this as 1 month after Endor, although "The New Essential Chronology" dates it as 1 month after the formation of The Alliance Of Free Planets.
- 1388) Boba Fett escapes the Sarlacc (for the second time).
- 1389) Dengar finds Fett.
- 1390) This trilogy picks up exactly where "Payback: The Tale Of Dengar" leaves off, with Dengar finding Boba Fett at the Great Pit of Carkoon. The trilogy takes place concurrently to ROTJ, with references to the Battle of Endor, but in order to make Boba Fett's story work its necessary to push the whole trilogy back by approx. 4 weeks.

We can make this work by attributing those references to a separate battle, one that is linked to the Nagai/Tof War.

- 1391) This late 1970's story obviously can't be expected to fit well with later Legends continuity, and was probably written with the intention of taking place just after ANH, however the mention of Leia being a member of government leads me to place it here, post-ROTJ.
- 1392) This book was officially commissioned, written, and ultimately shelved in the early 90's until it was 'leaked' onto the internet in 2022.
- 1393) This comic was intended to be a continuation of the original Marvel 1977 comic run, however Leia's comments about the New Republic forces being spread too thin to support the Mandalorian and Nagai make it seem as if the Tof war is still ongoing, so I have placed it before issue #107.
- 1394) The dating of this issue, and the end of the war, at 6 months post-Endor was given in "The Forgotten War: The Nagai And The Tofs", to explain the obvious time jump between issues #106 and #107.
- 1395) Although this RPG adventure module doesn't open with original fiction it does contain several in-universe communications between the main characters.
- 1396) This series, commonly referred to as the "Jedi Prince" series, was written in that early 90's period before continuity really started coming together, and as such it's probably the most retconned series in the history of SW publishing.
- 1397) The above 2 books cover, and expand upon, the events of the game.
- 1398) This prequel to Twin Engines Of Destruction was approved for inclusion in the Adventure Journal before its cancellation.
- 1399) As per the Essential Atlas chapter 13 takes place on 41:1:10, chapter 16-19 on 41:10:24, chapter 21-22 on 41:10:26, chapter 33-34 on 41:11:9, chapter 36-40 on 41:11:30.
- 1400) This entry states this recording was "provided" in 6 ABY, not sure provided to who as Dathomir wasn't rediscovered until 8 ABY.
- 1401) Every other timeline, including the ones printed within the books themselves places this book as 7 ABY, however the Essential Atlas dates it as very late into 6 ABY (based on the assumption that the third month of the GrS calendar is the first month of the BBY/ABY calendar). As per The Essential Atlas chapter 6 takes place on 42:1:1 so this book having a battle specifically dated in the first month of GrS, but also being 7 ABY, doesn't work. Chapter 24-26 takes place 42:1:31, and the mission to liberate Coruscant takes place between 42:1:23 and 42:2:17, so there fore the entire book takes place in 6 ABY.
- 1402) This 1 bonus mission takes place outside of the Clone Wars setting of the rest of this expansion pack.
- 1403) The story states that 3 years have passed since Endor, but "The Essential Readers Companion" dates it as 8 ABY.
- 1404) I haven't separated the flashback from the frame story for this entry since the story told is so clearly just a tall tale and didn't actually happen.
- 1405) Page 198 of "The Essential Atlas" provides the exact dates for some of the events in the Wraith Squadron books. Chapters 13-27 occur between 42:11:1 and 42:12:3, and the books climax, the Battle Of ESSION, happens on 42:12:7.
- 1406) Chapters 4-12 occur between 42:12:19 and 43:1:21, and chapters 18-21 (the Battle Of Kuat) happen on 43:1:26.
- 1407) This book happens between 43:2:1 and 43:2:28.
- 1408) The story specifically states it's been over 2 months since the start of "Solo Command", which would place it starting some time after 44:4:1, and the tagline used when it was first published, at starwars.com, stated it takes place 3 months before "The Courtship Of Princess Leia". Further to this, "Tatooine Ghost" specifically dates itself as 8 months after COPL. In order for all 3 of these stories to take place in the same year, Crossroads must be in month 1, COPL in month 6 and TG in month 12. Unfortunately, "The Essential Atlas" dates the Battle Of Dathomir, from COPL, as 43:3:21 which would be in the first month of 8 ABY. As much as I hate to do it, I'm going to have to ignore the Atlas date in order to make everything else work.
- 1409) This memo is dated 43:4:5.
- 1410) This memo is dated 43:6:2.

- 1411) In this short story, Lumpawaroo is 11 years old, but that's a mistake confirmed by Leland Chee. In order for the timeline to work, he must be about 9 years old.
- 1412) This story was written before the "Rogue Squadron" series so even though Thrawn is back, Coruscant is still under Imperial control.
- 1413) Even though this vignette is a few pages after "Leia's Lightsaber", placing it before helps establish Luke as the Jedi Master he has now become.
- 1414) The story states it takes place a few months after "Tatooine Ghost", meaning it must be in 9 ABY, possibly month 3.
- 1415) Starts "weeks" after the end of The Last Command.
- 1416) There are no timeline specific clues for any of the vignette and in-universe documents in this sourcebook apart from stating it's part of a mission to reconnect with the Unknown Regions, so grouped them all together.
- 1417) Placing this at the start of 10 ABY as there is no mention of the events of "Dark Empire", and I'm sure Mara Jade would have a thing or two to say about Palpatine's return.
- 1418) There are no timeline specific clues for any of the vignette and in-universe documents in this sourcebook apart from stating it's after "Dark Empire", so grouped them all together.
- 1419) The interview by Voran Na'al is essentially the frame story for this sourcebook and runs throughout.
- 1420) Lightsider was an illustrated novella by Tom Veitch and illustrated by Dave Dorman that was commissioned but ultimately never published. It was to feature the first encounter between Luke Skywalker and Kam Solusar on Nespis VIII, with Luke convincing Kam to return to the light side after defeating him in the "lightsider" game.
- 1421) The bulk of this flashback specifically takes place 10 days after the final death of Palpatine in "Empire's End".
- 1422) "I, Jedi" was written 4 years after the "Jedi Academy Trilogy" but we see the events of that trilogy anew through the eyes of Corran Horn.
- 1423) All of these recordings see Luke talking to his students at the Academy.
- 1424) I've placed this vignette here as the same ship from this story appears in the next chapter of "I, Jedi".
- 1425) N.R.I. Reports was a subpage of LucasArts' Star Wars: Jedi Knight II: Jedi Outcast promotional website. N.R.I. Reports conveyed the game's backstory through a series of weekly updates, which were styled as reports made by the New Republic Intelligence Service to Mon Mothma. The final report, dated 21 March 2002, included an audio file of a conversation between Kyle Katarn, Jan Ors and Mon Mothma that occurred after the game's opening crawl.
- 1426) PSP only. The game doesn't give any indication of how much time has passed since Endor, outside of a mention of the Imperial remnant. Wookieepedia places it as 5 ABY, linking it to Lando's continued ownership of Cloud City after ROTJ, however enough time has passed for X2 to have been made a full Jedi. Hence, me placing it here, far enough down the timeline that Luke has established his Jedi Academy, and also tying it into the Bespin level of Jedi Outcast.
- 1427) PSP only. Despite the "Sith Lord" X2 never being mentioned in any other media this is the earliest this level could take place due to Luke's knowledge of Vjun castle.
- 1428) I've placed these parts of this article in 14 ABY due to Lilli Vandelhelm being identified as 15 years old in "Star Wars (1977) #98" and 25 years old here.
- 1429) The place of "Red Sky, Blue Flame" on the timeline is problematic. Several internal references strongly imply that it occurs very soon after Vision of the Future in 19 ABY, and that was almost certainly the author's intent, but the story apparently describes the death of Stent, who is alive in Timothy Zahn's subsequent novel, Survivor's Quest, set in 22 ABY. Here Jag Fel is described as being fourteen years old, however "The New Essential Chronology" states that Jag Fel was born in 7 ABY which would make him only twelve in 19 ABY. When the discrepancy became apparent, LucasBooks editor Sue Rostoni initially suggested that the story ought to be relocated to occur after "Survivor's Quest", which also doesn't work. So I've opted to leave it in its original place on the timeline.
- 1430) This story dates itself as occurring after the peace treaty is signed in the "Hand Of Thrawn" duology, and placed here simply because there weren't many other 20 ABY stories.

- 1431) The opening cutscene of the single-player campaign sees Artoo and Threepio in the Jedi Council chambers and later the Jedi Archives, both locations looking exactly like they did in the prequels.
- 1432) This story doesn't have handy chapter names or numbers so I'm using the locations that start each section as a guide.
- 1433) The note included in the book is dated 24:3:7 which seems to bring the GrS dating system in line with the BBY/ABY system, using the same format but using the Battle of Yavin as it's starting point.
- 1434) "Time to invasion: Eight standard weeks".
- 1435) "One standard week after invasion of Helska 4".
- 1436) The "Invasion" comics don't gel particularly well with the rest of the NJO.
- 1437) This entry dates itself as 27 ABY but maybe that's the year it was recovered. This is when it "happens".
- 1438) Part 5 features the Battle of Yag'Dhul from chapter 43 of "Edge Of Victory: Rebirth".
- 1439) It is this piece, that so specifically dates itself as being some time after the Battle of Yag'Dhul, that helped me pin down the dating for all the other in-universe documents linked to Tem Eliss's publication of "The University Of Sanbra Guide To Intelligent Life" and his subsequent escape from the Empire.
- 1440) This story expands on the events of "Dark Journey" chapter 21.
- 1441) Timeline Gold was a massive influence to me, and was always my go-to detailed timeline before Nathan P. Butler retired from the timelining game post-Disney buyout. But before that he had the opportunity to contribute to Legends canon with this story.
- 1442) "Droids, Technology and the Force: A Clash of Phenomena" was an article published on starwars.com and features the in-universe perspective of Jedi Knight Tam Azur-Jamin. Peña is listed as the "translator", rather than the author of the article.
- 1443) This entry dates itself as 33 years after "Splinter Of The Minds Eye", which happens in 2 ABY, however this recording is stated to be part of Leia's induction as a fully fledged Jedi Knight which happens off screen after the "Dark Nest Trilogy".
- 1444) This story was initially only available in print to Hyperspace subscribers.
- 1445) This story dates itself as 10 years after the Yuuzhan Vong war.
- 1446) This book is presented as an in-universe tome, with a foreword by Tionne Solusar and various addendums written by other characters throughout. The framing of the book sets it after the funeral of Mara Jade Skywalker in "Legacy Of The Force: Inferno".
- 1447) This entry is another recording from Tionne and as such makes most sense to be placed here.
- 1448) Most sources date this book as 40 ABY. However, the prologue to "Fate Of The Jedi: Omen" occurs during the events of "Legacy Of The Force: Fury", and dates itself as "2 years earlier" than the rest of that book in 43 ABY.
- 1449) Chapter 16 leads directly into "First Blood".
- 1450) Chapter 1 of this book actually happens between chapters 12 and 13.
- 1451) These supplemental letters were written as promotional material for the release of "Fate Of The Jedi: Outcast" and were published on various websites.
- 1452) This is the 'final' Legends novel chronologically.
- 1453) Even though the history shown here of Luke's lightsaber, and what happened after it was lost on Cloud City is different from other stories, and this was before "Star Wars Tales" became 'true' canon with issue #20, if the story was to happen then this is a good spot as Ben Skywalker would be 19 years old, the same age as Luke in ANH.
- 1454) This story takes the form of an in-universe article written for the "Byblos Journal of Historical Science" by historian Gabrel Trean. It features an apparent date of "352:10," which while it is consistent with the formatting used for dates in the Great ReSynchronization-based dating system, the real world author confirmed online that it relates to the 352nd issue of the Journal, as opposed to a date. The author also confirmed the 104 ABY placement.
- 1455) Assuming Cade Skywalker and Jariah Syn are the same age and that Cade is 2 years old in the 117 ABY flashbacks.

TCW Timeline Ends Here

FOOTNOTES

- 1) I'm opening the entry titles with the season/episode numbers rather than including "The Clone Wars" because, well, this is The Clone Wars timeline so it goes without saying. The first 2 seasons didn't always follow a linear chronology, hence this episode being the earliest one on the timeline.
- 2) To promote the first season of "The Clone Wars" there were a series of webcomics, published on starwars.com, that tied into that weeks episode either as a prologue, or to provide backstory. These webcomics were published as a trade paperback, in 2010, by Dreams And Vision Press, in conjunction by Dark Horse Comics. Initially available at Star War Celebration 2010, and then via the online shop at starwars.com, they never saw a wider release and, as such, it is one of the rarer graphic novels.
- 3) The novelisation written by Karen Traviss, contains many references to the pre-TCW Legends stories including the Battle of Jabiim from the "Star Wars: Republic" comics, as well as using previously established backstory for Dooku and Asajj, despite the timeline no longer working.
- 4) This is the only section of this reference book to appear in the TCW timeline dealing as it does so specifically with events from the feature movie.
- 5) In this video game the player has a number of Jedi to choose from, however since the storyline, unique to this game, happens concurrently with the TCW movie (as confirmed by Leland Chee) we must accept this character choice as a game mechanic, and that the use of any character who is elsewhere at the time is irrelevant. Ziro the Hutt is a prominent character in this storyline so it must end before the movie due to Ziro's imprisonment between the end of the movie and the episode "Hostage Crisis". This story also has the first TCW appearance of the Nightsisters, who otherwise aren't introduced until season four.
- 6) Ahsoka is on her way to meet her new master at Christophsis.
- 7) NOTES ON "DECIDE YOUR DESTINY" – These choose-your-own-adventure game books were released for the UK and US markets with considerable differences. Not only were they numbered differently (although this book, "The Way Of The Jedi", is #1 in both versions), there are also some titles exclusive to each market. In the US only 3 titles were released compared to 4 in the UK, despite there actually being 5 titles in the series. The UK version also had an online element to the gameplay in which you could visit starwars.com/decideyourdestiny to access exclusive animated scenes and browser games, sometime asking you to go online and enter a code word in order to discover which page number is next on your chosen path. The US versions of the same book simply gives you a page number, making the UK version pretty much unplayable these days. Unlike similar CYOU style books there are over 20 possible endings to these books...some good, some bad, some surprisingly dark, making it hard to suggest a single ending as the "proper" one.
- 8) This story happens concurrent to the TCW movie and starts after Plo Koon arrives on Teth. This book was number #2 in the UK series and #3 in the US series.
- 9) This book is exclusive to the US series and was numbered #2.
- 10) The sixth volume of the UK Magazine was purely focused on TCW. Although Wookieepedia claims that these stories happen in chronological order I'm not entirely sure the writers/editors has this in mind as, for the most part, they are very throwaway stories with little connection (outside of a few exceptions) to the episodes. In this instance, I'm taking advantage of an assumed gap between the movie and the first story arc.
- 11) As with so many of these retailer website promotional short stories this is no longer available at its original source.
- 12) This story is clearly in the early days of Ahsoka's role as Anakin's Padawan.
- 13) This season three episode serves as a lead-in to the very first episode of the show.
- 14) I have placed this comic after "The Droid Deception" as both stories see Mace off Coruscant.
- 15) Karen Traviss brings lots of elements from Legends in TCW including Pellaeon, from the Thrawn Trilogy, and future girlfriend of Luke Skywalker - Callista Ming.
- 16) This Ladybird children's book tells a very generic story of Ahsoka running into trouble on Tatooine.

- 17) This story specifies it is the "early days" of the Clone Wars and Obi-Wan, Anakin, and Ahsoka, are based on the Resolute, hence me placing it before the Malevolence arc.
- 18) HoloNet News was an official Star Wars podcast released on both iTunes and starwars.com. This episode sees various Republic scientists discussing the viabilities of superweapons, and the attack in the Phu system by General Grievous (as seen in the previous entry) is mentioned.
- 19) The levels of this simple Wii game mostly recreate fights from the TCW movie and episodes up to "Destroy Malevolence". This level is the only bit of narrative that is unique to the game.
- 20) This book dates itself as starting after the Malevolence arc, while the 4th book in the series mentions the events of "Dooku Captured" so I have spread the series between those episodes.
- 21) I've placed this story after the Malevolence arc as Anakin and Ahsoka are still on the Resolute.
- 22) This book was unique to the UK series and as to take place far enough into the Clone Wars for the following sentence to be true: "We have been harried and threatened by Dooku and Grievous many times in the past".
- 23) The year splits have changed over time but I'm using the most recent ones, highlighting the year splits between TCW episodes, from "Star Wars Timelines".
- 24) This book was unique to the UK series. I've placed it before here due o mention of Separatist threats against Senator Amidala.
- 25) I've placed this Ahsoka/Kit Fisto adventure here after Kit's TCW debut in "Lair Of Grievous". The following three entries also feature Kit.
- 26) From 2008-2010 Dark Horse published "The Clone Wars" ongoing series that ran for 12 issues. This was the second of the three story arcs and was collected as part of the TCW digest novella series, rather than a standard sized trade paperback.
- 27) Over the course of 2008 to 2013 Dark Horse released a TCW based graphic novellas, much longer than a standard single issue comic but usually shorter than a full trade paperback. They were also smaller in size, like the "Clone Wars Adventures" series that came before it. Much as the TCW show in itself didn't try to fit with existing Legends chronology, many of the TCW tie-ins (such as this series and the UK comic) weren't overly precious about fitting in with the show. As such, unless stated, all the placements are best guess. If it wasn't clear by now, TCW is the loosest (internal chronology-wise) that Star Wars storytelling has even been.
- 28) If you didn't read this online comic then you may have been confused why Obi-Wan and Anakin wake up from being drugged in "The Gungan General" despite having apparently swapped their spike drinks as the end of "Dooku Captured".
- 29) I've placed this Aayla Secura-centric story just before her TCW debut in "Jedi Crash". It also serves as an apparent direct follow on from her early Legends storyline.
- 30) Although it shares the "A Galaxy Divided" title with a previous audio release, this 5 part series is a continuation of that original idea. It serves as a lead-in to the "Republic Heroes" video game, and mentions some of the planets that you visit during that games storyline. Unfortunately it also references the season one finale "Hostage Crisis" which the producers later determined actually took place during season three.
- 31) This entry refers to the storyline of the version of the game that appeared on all consoles EXCEPT the Nintendo DS. That version recreated various fights from episodes of the show, rather than an original storyline,
- 32) Originally issues #10-12 of the Dark Horse "The Clone Wars" run, this arc mentions the events of the Ryloth arc hence placing it after.
- 33) Anakin is on Coruscant, where we also find him in the next episode, "Holocron Heist".
- 34) I'm placing this Cad Bane-centric story before his TCW debut in "Holocron Heist".
- 35) This webcomic tied into the second season of the show with one continuous story published weekly, as opposed to the individual stories released for season one. This section bridges the gap between "Holocron Heist" and "Cargo Of Doom" as we see Cad Bane capture Master Ropal.
- 36) Ahsoka and Anakin are back on Coruscant.
- 37) This is a unique title in that it was a personalised Star Wars book where you could name and style the main character before printing. If the customer chose the Jedi version, his or her character replaced Anakin Skywalker. If he or she chose the Sith version, they replaced Asajj Ventress.
- 38) This was a promotional, but in-universe, poster that was published on starwars.com.

- 39) This is the only TCW story written by John Ostrander, who has possibly written more Star Wars comics than anyone else to date. Since Yoda is onboard the Resolute here and the Twilight in the next entry, I've linked the two together.
- 40) I've placed this Obi-Wan and Yoda adventure here because neither appear in the next episode.
- 41) Dave Filoni wrote this script, which serves as a lead in to the next episode, for a full cast read through at the Star Wars Fan Days III Convention in 2009. That's about as unofficially official as it gets.
- 42) This was a promotional, but in-universe, warning poster that was published on starwars.com.
- 43) An argument could be made for this story to actually happen before the TCW movie as, even though, Obi-Wan and Yoda face off against Asajj there is no indication that they're know each other as no names are used throughout the story.
- 44) "Hunting The Hunters" was the final webcomic released as part of TCW's first season. It explicitly states that it takes place between seasons one and two, continuing as it does the storyline started in "Hostage Crisis". But this was before it was decided to move the events of the season one finales into the middle of season three. None of the "Hunting The Hunters" comics were included in the "Tales From The Clone Wars" TPB.
- 45) This Flash player game was available on starwars.com and successful completion of the game presented you with a bonus last page of "Hunting The Hunters" part 1.
- 46) This Flash player game was available on starwars.com and successful completion of the game presented you with a bonus last page of "Hunting The Hunters" part 2.
- 47) This Flash player game was available on starwars.com and successful completion of the game presented you with a bonus last page of "Hunting The Hunters" part 3.
- 48) From this issue onwards the interior art reflects the updated character models that debuted in "Heroes On Both Sides". As the magazine ran for a further 37 issues the stories become a lot more frequent throughout the timeline for hereon.
- 49) This is the only 2 part story in this whole run.
- 50) The next two entries feature the main characters on Coruscant, so it fits well after "Senate Murders".
- 51) This story has Anakin and Obi-Wan on a tour of duty in space, which is where we find them at the start of the next story too. And as both are by the same author I've paired them together.
- 52) This story specifically takes place after "Monster" as it features the funeral of Roonan Halsey.
- 53) This Ryder Windham story continues the adventures of his characters from the "Secret Missions" series.
- 54) This story sees Obi-Wan and Anakin working with Ackbar on a water planet. Although it isn't named as Mon Cal it could still serve as a lead in to the next arc of TCW.
- 55) This story sees Yoda leading clones against a Separatist attack on a moon close to Kashyyyk. As the next story sees Yoda attend a security conference on Kashyyyk itself it makes sense to pair these two stories together. If the proposed season 7 Kashyyyk arc had seen the light of day in the Legends continuity then maybe these two stories would have been better placed close to it.
- 56) This is a direct continuation of the story started in issue #40.
- 57) This three episode arc of TCW was adapted from "Slaves Of The Republic", issues #1-6 of the Dark Horse comic series, late collected in digest format.
- 58) This comic specifies that it takes place "sometime during season four".
- 59) This story specifically serves as a prequel to "Bounty".
- 60) Although I have included the bulk of this book in the main timeline, these sections specifically deal with Maul being found by his brother, Savage Opress.
- 61) This story specifies it takes place between season four and five. This was also the first appearance of the Darksaber on a comic cover.
- 62) Since Ahsoka is off on her own mission with Jedi younglings in the following TCW episode this seems like a good spot for this story of Anakin doing similar.
- 63) The following two entries are both Yoda-centric stories.
- 64) TCW takes a much more serious turn from "Revival" onwards, so I've made the decision to keep all these kid-friendly comics pre-19 BBY.
- 65) The sixth season of TCW is the final season that can be considered Legends given it premiered in March 2014, one month before the announcement that the Expanded Universe would be rebranded as Legends.

- 66) Seven weeks after this episode aired, Lucasfilm announced the rebranding of the Expanded Universe to Legends and no longer canonical. Outside of the Skywalker Saga movies, TCW was the only thing to survive the move and still be considered canon.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

There are so many people, and inspirations, to thank that I couldn't even begin to list you all without fear of missing anybody out.

However, there are some Youtini.com folk that deserve a shout out....

Corey.... thanks for replying and giving me an outlet for all the stuff I was doing at home anyway.

Eric.... thanks for teaching me, far too late in life, that there is no shame in being who you are and loving what you love.

Oz.... I hate you. Thanks for being the American mirror of me.

Jose.... I can't even begin to explain, but thanks for everything (check out our deep dive podcast "The Star Wars Archives" *shameless plug*)

The biggest thanks of all have to go to my long suffering partner, Sarah, for putting up with my hours spent on the laptop during this project, but also for indulging, accepting, and supporting this obsession of mine.

I love you Pudsey...
